Apprehension Still Grips Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Uncertainty and apprehension continued to grip this racially troubled city today as 3,000 combat-ready troops stood within striking distance in the event of new outbreaks of major violence.

Scattered violence was reported during the night. Two persons were hurt. Automobile windshields were smashed and windows were broken in about a dozen buildings.

A white youth was slashed on his right elbow with a knife. He said he was attacked by a group of Negroes. A Negro man was hospitalized after he was struck in the face by a large steel ball fired from a slingshot, apparently wielded by a white youth.

President Kennedy ordered the troops into the state, but Gov.
George C. Wallace says the action is illegal and hinted that he may seek a federal injunction to keep federal forces out of the city.

Kennedy wired Wallace that he acted under a section of the U.S.
Code giving the President the power to determine whether federal troops are needed in cases of domestic violence, and whether state authorities are providing adequate protection to citizens.

Wallace and Kennedy may meet Saturday at Muscle Shoals, Ala.
The President is scheduled to attend an observance by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

In other developments concerning the tense racial situation here:

—Jackie Robinson and Floyd Patterson spoke to Negroes at a mass meeting Monday night and said Negroes here are fighting to end segregation everywhere.

—A Negro reserve police captain said that state troopers prevented him from using 62 uniformed Negro reserves to help
quell the rioting which followed Saturday night's bombings.

—Police said no arrests have been made in their investigation of the bombings. The FBI is working on the case, too, but has made no report.

—Integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. went through the city's Negro community and in pool halls and on street corners urging his listeners to discard their knives and clubs. "If the streets of Birmingham are going to flow with the blood, let it be our blood and not the blood of our white brothers," he pleaded.

—Two Army generals and top Justice Department officials set up a headquarters in Birmingham.

The police patrol at one time was estimated at 1,200 men. It was reported that only a few hundred were on duty.

"You can say that Police Chief Jamie Moore and Alabama Safety Director Al Lingo share joint responsibility for the command," said Birmingham Police Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor.

Maj. Walter Allen of the highway patrol, said: "There is no chain of command if you refer out of a car first. It is a joint

Senator Says U.S. Giving Up In Dispute over Air Fares

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen.
Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said today the United States is capitulating in the international dispute over air fares on Atlantic routes.

Magnuson said the State Department would announce the action

a 5 per cent increase in round trip fares which this country had opposed.

He said the department would
announce that American carriers
would be directed to put the high-

Magnuson reported the forth-

U.S. Cancels Its Nevada Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has abruptly canceled
three explosions at its Nevada nuclear testing site. The action followed word that President Kennedy is studying a new note from Soviet Premier Khrushchev on test ban negotiations.

A White House spokesman denied there was any relationship between the two developments.

Without explanation, the Atomic Energy Commission announced
Monday that it and the Defense Department were calling off
"three small sub-kiloton detona-tions" which had been scheduled for this month.

Two were to involve nuclear devices, the third a chemical high explosive.

Radio Moscow had complained that the U.S. tests were aimed at producing new types of nuclear weapons and added in a veiled threat:

"One thing is clear, the USSR
is not going to stand by idly watching the U.S. perfect its nuclear weapons."

U.S. Sources said the Khrushchev letter made no change in the Soviet position on a nuclear test ban—"it moves neither forward nor backward."

Angry Chicago Negroes Stone Police, Firemen

CHICAGO (AP) — Hundreds of Negroes, reportedly angered by wounding of a Negro youth during an attempted burglary, stoned police and firemen in what police termed an anti-police demonstration Monday night.

Twenty-five squad cars of police and several police dogs quelled
the rock-throwing, jeering crowd
in a predominantly Negro section of the West Side after the crowd had milled around for two hours.

Gov. Rhodes' 'Golden Age' Plan Near Vote

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Likely
for a vote in the House of the Ohio Assembly Wednesday is a bill sponsored by Gov. James A.
Rhodes to erect so-called "Golden Age" villages to house non-psychotic aged persons now in state mental hospitals.

The bill would authorize issuance of revenue bonds which would be retired by rents charged the occupants.

Should an able-bodied relief recipient be required to work for his family's keep?

The Ohio Senate already has said yes, and the Ohio House is scheduled to follow suit today.

Many counties already require relief recipients to work for their checks. The proposed law would make work by recipients mandatory in all counties.

One of the biggest possible, difficulties seems to be, however,
that there may be some occasions when work is not available for those on relief status.

The House is scheduled to make short work of a couple of routine measures making deficiency appropriations for relief and school subsidy payments for the budget biennium which ends June 30. The welfare measure amounts to $11.1 million and the school bill comes to $2.5 million. After House passage, both bills will go to the Senate.

As the House started what probably is last month of deliberations Monday, it passed and sent to the Senate a bill to increase the pensions of widows of township firemen from $60 to $90 a month and for each child from $30 to $35 a month.

As the legislative pace picks up today, the House planned a vote on a bill to establish training centers for the mentally retarded. At the same time, the Senate planned a vote on a House-approved bill to permit boards of nursing home.

Congress to give the Civil Aeronautics Board power its now lacks to regulate and enforce international
air fares.

However, the White House said
the proposed legislation Kennedy
was sending to Congress would
have no practical effect on the current controversy because it would take too long to push
through Congress.

Magnuson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, told reporters he has called a hearing
Wednesday on the dispute and on the White House bill.

Pierre Salinger, White House
press secretary, said the bill
would be sent to Congress later
today.

He declined comment when asked if Democratic congressional leaders were asked to seek quick
passage of the legislation when
they met with the President for breakfast this morning. Salinger
would only say that they were informed to the bill.

The British and several other
foreign countries are trying to
force Pan American World Air-
ways and Trans World Airlines to charge increased fares over the North Atlantic routes, despite objections by the United States.

The higher rates had been agreed on by the International Air Transport Association last fall.

Julian Amery, British minister
of aviation, Monday accused the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board of
"inciting the two airlines to 'break
our law.'" He told the House of Commons:

"The situation is unacceptable
and cannot be allowed to continue."

He has threatened to confiscate
American airlines landing in London.

Salinger told his news conference that under present law the CAB lacks power to enforce its
air fares on foreign planes within
the continental United States. He said the proposed bill would give
them necessary authority.

Rhodes, Cabinet Book Official Dayton Visit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov.
James A. Rhodes takes his cabiference with industrial leaders.

He told a press conference that the session would be similar to those held recently in Cleveland and Cincinnati.

The governor scheduled a news conference for 2:30 p. m. in the Dayton Biltmore Hotel. He said he would attend an appreciation banquet that evening in honor of Montgomery County Republican Chairman Howard Young.

Wheat Control Referendum To Hinge on Small Farmer

CHICAGO (AP) — An unknown
quantity in the nation's May 21
wheat control referendum is the
number of eligible voters among
farmers or persons with a direct
financial interest in wheat crop
grown on fewer than 15 acres of land.

Based on unofficial figures from
farm organizations and state farm
agencies, the core of this unknown
quantity is in five Midwest
states — Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky,
Indiana and Michigan.

There have been 11 referenda
in some 30 years that the United States government has tried to
control excess wheat production.
In none of these were operators of
farms with fewer than 15 acres
in wheat eligible to vote. In this 12th referendum they are eligible,
providing they completed and
signed a form before May 13 that
if the referendum is approved by
two-thirds of those voting they
will participate in the control program.

The Midwest states and the unofficial number of farms growing wheat in each are

Ohio, 110,000 farms each with fewer than 15 acres in wheat and 20,000 farms with more than 15
acres in wheat; Michigan, 98,000
and 16,000; Illinois, 103,814 and 16, 676; Kentucky, 22,770 eligible
farmers with an average acreage
in wheat of fewer than 8 acres; Indiana, the State Farm Bureau
Federation estimated 65,308 farms
with fewer than 15 acres and 17, 332 with more than 15 acres, but
the state office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation
Service estimates there are 95,000
farms with fewer than 15 acres in wheat and 27,000 with more than 15 acres.

Assuming that all farmers who produce wheat from fewer than 15 acres became eligible for the referendum, there will be for the first time in these five states at least 510,000 new votes. In addition to the operators of the under-15-acre farms, other eligible in-

Demonstration By Negroes Hits Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Negro students, demanding desegregation of all public accommodations, clashed with police and rock-throwing whites in a noisy
2-hour demonstration in downtown Nashville Monday night.

A few hours later, police were sent to the home of a Negro leader who said a shotgun blast fired from a car smashed through the window of his home and narrowly missed his wife.

his efforts to reach a biracial accord and "preserve the peace."

Negro leaders scheduled an other meeting for late today to press their demands:

1. Desegregation of all public accommodations such as hotels, motels, restaurants and lunch counters. Some eating places, all downtown theaters, the baseball park and the civic auditorium are integrated.

2. Better employment opportunities for qualified Negroes.

3. Dropping of all charges now pending against students arrested while demonstrating against segregation—dating back to the start of the sit-in movement in 1960.

The shotgun blast ripped through the front window at the home of H. E. Braden, executive vice president of the Nashville Christian Leadership Council. No one was injured.

Railroad Work Rules Reported

Guidelines Laid Down
By Kennedy Advisers

WASHINGTON (AP)—A three-
man presidential panel laid down
broad guidelines today for gradual removal of most firemen from freight and yard trains, central issue in work rules dispute that threatens a nationwide rail strike
June 12.

In a report to President Kennedy, the panel said the issues between the railroads and the five
operating brotherhoods have been
narrowed, and an agreement can
be reached in the next 30 days if
both sides will bargain realistically.

"The next 30 days will be important not only to the parties,
but also to the nation, and to the future of collective bargaining as
an effective method of disputes
settlement. Although the general public is not a formal party to
this dispute, each citizen in the United States has an acute interest in its resolution," the report
said.

The central issue is the recommendation of an earlier presidential commission—named by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower—which proposed eliminating 40,000 firemen from freight
and yard trains.

The railroads contend outmoded
work rules cost them $600 million
each year. They call these rules
"featherbedding."

The railroads accepted the proposal of the earlier presidential
commission, which called for substantial benefits for the eliminated firemen, but the unions rejected them.

As a result of negotiations with-
in the last month, the three-man
panel said the railroads have agreed that the bulk of the work
performed by firemen on freight
diesels is necessary, but that in most cases it can be combined
with work performed by other employees.

"On the other hand," the report added, "The brotherhoods do
not contend there are no jobs
presently occupied by firemen
which cannot be abolished."

"The basic problem, therefore,
becomes one of establishing a procedure for ascertaining those
situations, if any, which will continue to require the presence of
a fireman in order to assure adequate safety, and to prevent placing an undue burden upon
the remaining crew members."

The continued use of firemen
on passenger trains is not an issue in the dispute.

Body of Woman Is Identified

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — The
body of a woman found in a wooded ravine 25 miles northeast of
here Saturday was identified early
today as that of a 47-year-old Proctorville woman.

Sheriff Carl E. Rose said the woman was identified through fingerprints as Avelene Smith.
She had been missing since May 4, exactly a week before she was found in the ravine about five miles northeast of Chesapeake
in Lawrence County, Rose said. The body, already beginning to decom-
pose, was nude.

Rose said the cause of death
still is not known and that an investigation is continuing.

Radar Fouls Today's Launch

Cooper To Try Again
At 8 a.m. Wednesday

CAPE CANEVEAL, Fla. (AP)
—Gordon Cooper's space mission
—22 orbits in 34 hours—was postponed today because of a faulty
radar unit in Bermuda. Space
agency officials rescheduled the
shot for 8 a.m. EST Wednesday.

Walter Williams, Project Mercury operation director, said there was a condition. He said another look would be taken at the Bermuda radar situation at 6 p.m.
EST today to make sure it would
be ready for a launch Wednesday.

When Cooper was informed of
the scrub, his only comment was:
"This was a very realistic simulation." The remark was relayed
by Williams.

Williams also said the weather
prediction for Wednesday is approximately the same as for today.

Liquid oxygen will be removed from the giant Atlas rocket but it
is necessary to scrub out the
tanks as it has been on previous flights. Space officials said that the Bermuda radar is the sole problem as of now in determining whether the flight will go Wednesday.

As for the astronaut, he finally
got out of his capsule at 11:27 a.m.

The effort was called off for the
day at 9:57 a.m. as Cooper, 36-
year-old Air Force major, waited
out the countdown while sealed
in his tiny Faith 7 spacecraft
atop the fully fueled Atlas
booster.

The countdown had progressed
to within 12 minutes of launching.

The postponement came as an
anticlimax after earlier troubles
had held up the scheduled launching for two hours and nine minutes.

That trouble was caused by a diesel engine designed to move
the giant service tower away
from the launching pad. It was necessary to replace a fuel pump
and purge foreign matter from
the fuel line before the engine
could operate.

Indications of the radar trouble
came only about 15 minutes before the launching was called off.
The tracking station at Bermuda
said it was experiencing intermittent difficulty, but Mercury Control officials decided to continue
the countdown in case the radar
could be repaired.

But technicians at Bermuda reported minutes later that it would
be impossible to replace the
equipment today, and the shot
was called off.

The radar is a 12-foot diameter
dish designed to send radio signals to the spacecraft as it rises
over Bermuda about five minutes
after launching.

The signals trigger a device
called a radio transponder in spacecraft. By measuring the time it takes a signal to travel
from the Bermuda station to the spacecraft and then back to Bermuda, computers can determine

Mom Cooper Disappointed By 'Scrub'

TECUMSEH, Okla. (AP)—"Oh,
I know he's disappointed!"
Hattie Cooper was, too. But mostly for her son L. Gordon
Cooper Jr., who didn't blast into
space today because of faulty radar equipment in Bermuda.

"That poor little fellow," she
said sadly when the flight was finally postponed after hours of waiting.

Since 4:40 a.m., she and her mother, Mrs. Orena Herd, had been up, bustling around the small frame home in this little central Oklahoma town five miles from
Shawnee, where Cooper was born.

They drank countless cups of
coffee as they watched television.
Most of the time they sat silently, but Mrs. Cooper convinced her mother to walk around a bit—"sitting there so long can be bad for
her circulation."

The astronaut's mother said
earlier she is a bit worried about
the orbital mission of her son.
"It wouldn't be right if I didn't,"
she said.

He said the department would
announce that American carriers
would be directed to put the higher fares into effect.

Magnuson reported the forthcoming action shortly after the White House had announced that President Kennedy would ask

Congress to give the Civil Aeronautics Board power its now lacks to regulate and enforce international
air fares.

However, the White House said
the proposed legislation Kennedy
was sending to Congress would
have no practical effect on the
current controversy because it
would take too long to push
through Congress.

Magnuson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, told reporters he has called a hearing
Wednesday on the dispute and on
the White House bill.

Pierre Salinger, White House
press secretary, said the bill
would be sent to Congress later
today.

He declined comment when asked if Democratic congressional
leaders were asked to seek quick
passage of the legislation when
they met with the President for
breakfast this morning. Salinger
would only say that they were informed to the bill.

The British and several other
foreign countries are trying to
force Pan American World Air-
ways and Trans World Airlines to
charge increased fares over the North Atlantic routes, despite objections by the United States.

The higher rates had been agreed on by the International Transport Association last fall.

Julian Amery, British minister
of aviation, Monday accused the
U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board of
"inciting" the two airlines to "break
Commons:

"The situation is unacceptable
and cannot be allowed to continue."

He has threatened to confiscate
American airlines landing in London.

Salinger told his news conference that under present law the CAB lacks power to enforce its
the continental United States. He said the proposed bill would give
them necessary authority.

BRITON IS IRKED

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate approved unanimously Monday a compromise bill authorizing expenditure of $15.3 billion by the military services for new weap-

The measure, agreed on by a Senate-House Commerce committee last Friday, reconciles differences in separate bills previously passed by each branch. It goes now to the House for final action.

Included in the measure is $363.7 million not requested by the Defense department for development of the supersonic jet reconnaissance airplane known as the RS70.

Wheat Control Referendum To Hinge on Small Farmer

CHICAGO (AP)—An unknown
quantity in the nation's May 21
wheat control referendum is the
number of eligible voters among
farmers or persons with a direct
financial interest in wheat crop
grown on fewer than 15 acres of
land.

Based on unofficial figures from
farm organizations and state farm
agencies, the core of this unknown
states — Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky,
Indiana and Michigan.

There have been 11 referenda
in some 30 years that the United States government has tried to
control excess wheat production.
In none of these were operators of
farms with fewer than 15 acres
in wheat eligible to vote. In this 12th referendum they are eligible,
providing they completed and
signed a form before May 13 that
if the referendum is approved by
two-thirds of those voting they
will participate in the control program.

The Midwest states and the unofficial number of farms growing
wheat in each are

Ohio, 110,000 farms each with
fewer than 15 acres in wheat and 20,000 farms with more than 15
acres in wheat; Michigan, 98,000
and 16,000; Illinois, 103,814 and 16-676; Kentucky, 22,770 eligible
farmers with an average acreage
diana, the State Farm Bureau
Federation estimated 65,308 farms
with fewer than 15 acres and 17-332 with more than 15 acres, but
Stabilization and Conservation
Service estimates there are 95,000
farms with fewer than 15 acres in wheat and 27,000 with more than 15 acres.

Assuming that all farmers who
15 acres became eligible for the
referendum, there will be for the first time in these five states at
least 510,000 new votes. In addition to the operators of the under-15-acre farms, other eligible include the landlord, if a tenant-operator shares returns with him;

all the partners of a farm operated on a partnership basis; and in community property states both husband and wife may vote.

It has been estimated that the average vote from each farm will be about two persons, thus on May 21 there will be some one million more votes cast in these five Midwest states than ever were cast in any previous referendum.

Of the known quantity — those farming more than 15 acres of wheat in the five states—there will be fewer than 200,000, also estimated at about two votes per farm.

If the administration's program is approved, the national acreage allotment in 1964 will be cut from 55 million acres to 49.5 million. Eighty per cent of the farm wheat output will be supported at $2 a bushel for food use and some exports, and the remaining 20 per cent will be supported at $1.30 a bushel for non-farm use. There also will be some marketing and distributing controls.

In this way, the government hopes to reduce substantially the 3 billion bushels of wheat it now owns or is storing under price support loans. This represents a year's supply for domestic and export needs. Last year's wheat program cost more than $1 billion.

Railroad Work Rules Reported

Guidelines Laid Down
By Kennedy Advisers

WASHINGTON (AP)—A three-
man presidential panel laid down
freight and yard trains, central issue in work rules dispute that
threatens a nationwide rail strike
June 12.

In a report to President Kennedy, the panel said the issues between the railroads and the five
operating brotherhoods have been
narrowed, and an agreement can
be reached in the next 30 days if
both sides will bargain realisti-
cally.

"The next 30 days will be important not only to the parties,
but also to the nation, and to the
future of collective bargaining as
an effective method of disputes
public is not a formal party to
this dispute, each citizen in the United States has an acute interest in its resolution," the report
said.

The central issue is the recommendation of an earlier presiden-
mer President Dwight D. Eisenhower—which proposed eliminating 40,000 firemen from freight
and yard trains.

The railroads contend outmoded
work rules cost them $600 million
each year. They call these rules
"featherbedding."

The railroads accepted the proposal of the earlier presidential
commission, which called for substantial benefits for the eliminated firemen, but the unions rejected them.

As a result of negotiations with-
in the last month, the three-man
panel said the railroads have
agreed that the bulk of the work
performed by firemen on freight
diesels is necessary, but that in
most cases it can be combined
with work performed by other employees.

"On the other hand," the report added, "The brotherhoods do
not contend there are no jobs
presently occupied by firemen
which cannot be abolished."

"The basic problem, therefore,
becomes one of establishing a
procedure for ascertaining those
situations, if any, which will continue to require the presence of
a fireman in order to assure adequate safety, and to prevent
placing an undue burden upon
the remaining crew members."

The continued use of firemen
on passenger trains is not an issue in the dispute.

Body of Woman
Is Identified

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—The
body of a woman found in a wood-
ed ravine 25 miles northeast of
here Saturday was identified early
today as that of a 47-year-old
Proctorville woman.

Sheriff Carl E. Rose said the woman was identified through fingerprints as Avanelle Smith.
She had been missing since May 4, exactly a week before she was
found in the ravine about five
miles northeast of Chesapeake
in Lawrence County, Rose said. The body, already beginning to decom-
pose, was nude.

Rose said the cause of death
still is not known and that an investigation is continuing.

Wheat Discussion Slated Thursday

A detailed discussion on the coming Wheat Referendum has been scheduled Thursday at the Fairgrounds 4-H and Grange Building.

The discussion will be directed by George Hamrick, local Extension agent. The session, designed to present factual information on the upcoming vote, will start at 8 p. m.

The Wheat Referendum will be voted on May 21. All area wheat growers are invited to Thursday's meeting.

3 Farmers Lose Wheat Poll Claim

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S.
District Judge John J. Sirica denied today a motion by three small wheat growers requesting the convening of a three-judge court to hear their complaint that a wheat referendum to be held May 21 is unconstitutional.

Clifford E. Simon Jr., counsel for the wheat growers, argued that the act passed by Congress
last year setting up a two-price wheat plan for 1964 is unconstitutional.

However, the motion which Sir-ica denied today was to have a three-judge court convene to consider the question of constitution-ality.

Under the law, a single judge
may not pass upon the constitutionality of a federal statute in a case where an injunction is requested.

In this case, the three wheat producers were seeking a temporary and permanent injunctions against Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to prevent him from holding the wheat referendum a week from today.

To have the two price wheat plan put into effect for the 1964 crop, it must be approved by two-thirds of the wheat farmers who vote in the May 21 referendum.

Young Arsonist To Receive Parole

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Massillon youth, convicted of arson and manslaughter as the result of a fire which took an elderly woman's life, is among 68 inmates to be paroled from the State Reformatory at Mansfield
next month.

In making the announcement today, the Pardon and Parole Commission identified him as Daniel
P. Manweiler, 20, received April 19, 1961. Commission records indicate Manweiler was convicted of starting a fire in the family home, apparently with an idea of making a favorable impression by extinguishing it.

Mrs. Mary Koblenz, 86, who adopted Manweiler's mother in infancy, suffocated.

Cooper To Try Again
At 8 a.m. Wednesday

CAPE CANEVEAL, Fla. (AP)—
Gordon Cooper's space mission
—22 orbits in 34 hours—was postponed today because of a faulty
radar unit in Bermuda. Space
agency officials rescheduled the
shot for 8 a.m. EST Wednesday.

Walter Williams, Project Mercury operation director, said there
was a condition. He said another
look would be taken at the Ber-
muda radar situation at 6 p.m.
EST today to make sure it would
be ready for a launch Wednesday.

When Cooper was informed of
the scrub, his only comment was:
"This was a very realistic simulation." The remark was relayed
by Williams.

Williams also said the weather
prediction for Wednesday is approximately the same as for to-
day.

Liquid oxygen will be removed
from the giant Atlas rocket but it
is necessary to scrub out the
tanks as it has been on previous flights. Space officials said the Bermuda radar is the sole
problem as of now in determining whether the flight will go Wednes-
day.

As for the astronaut, he finally
got out of his capsule at 11:27 a.m.
The effort was called off for the
day at 9:57 a.m. as Cooper, 36-
year-old Air Force major, waited
out the countdown while sealed
in his tiny Faith 7 spacecraft
atop the fully fueled Atlas
booster.

The countdown had progressed
to within 12 minutes of launching.
The postponement came as an
anticlimax after earlier troubles
had held up the scheduled launching for two hours and nine minutes.

That trouble was caused by a
diesel engine designed to move
the giant service tower away
from the launching pad. It was necessary to replace a fuel pump
and purge foreign matter from
the fuel line before the engine
could operate.

Indications of the radar trouble
came only about 15 minutes before the launching was called off.
The tracking station at Bermuda
said it was experiencing intermit-
tent difficulty, but Mercury Control officials decided to continue
the countdown in case the radar
could be repaired.

But technicians at Bermuda reported minutes later that it would
be impossible to replace the
equipment today, and the shot
was called off.

The radar is a 12-foot diameter
dish designed to send radio signals to the spacecraft as it rises
over Bermuda about five minutes
after launching.

called a radio transponder in spacecraft. By measuring the
time it takes a signal to travel
from the Bermuda station to the
spacecraft and then back to Ber-

Mom Cooper Disappointed By 'Scrub'

TECUMSEH, Okla. (AP)—"Oh,
I know he's disappointed!"
Hattie Cooper was, too. But mostly for her son L. Gordon
Cooper Jr., who didn't blast into
space today because of faulty ra-
dar equipment in Bermuda.

"That poor little fellow," she
said sadly when the flight was finally postponed after hours of
waiting.

Since 4:40 a.m., she and her mother, Mrs. Orena Herd, had been up, bustling around the small
frame home in this little central Oklahoma town five miles from
Shawnee, where Cooper was born.

coffee as they watched television.
Most of the time they sat silently, but Mrs. Cooper convinced her mother to walk around a bit—"sitting there so long can be bad for
her circulation."

The astronaut's mother said
earlier she is a bit worried about
the orbital mission of her son.
"It wouldn't be right if I didn't,"
she said.

Park Improvement Now in Full Swing

Considerable improvements have been completed so far this spring at Ted Lewis Park.

Progress on improvement of various facilities was reported today by the Circleville Park Board. Members of the governing body said the projects will continue as money allows.

Jack McGuire has been named chairman of the Park Board. He succeeds Edgar Webb.

In other developments, Harold Anderson has been named as a new member of the three-man Board. He was appointed by Mayor Richard Penn. The third member is J. Ludwig Haacker.

IN THE WAY of recent improvement, McGuire said the stage and storage area at the end of the large shelterhouse has been converted into a garage to house mowers and other equipment. This area also will be used as a workshop where repairs can be made on park equipment.

The basketball court, a popular facility at the park, has been enlarged four feet on each side and six feet at each end. New backboards have been installed. Plans call for the regrading of ground around the court.

McGuire, enthusiastic that more improvements are yet to come, noted that new posts have been placed along both sides of the street past the shelterhouse. Gravel has been added to the off-street area to make better parking facilities.

He said the Norfolk and Western Railroad has aided the spring program by cleaning up its right-of-way along the park.

New letters have been placed on the Ted Lewis sign to replace those destroyed during the winter. A trailer has been purchased for use of caretakers in cleaning up and other various jobs.

The new Board chairman said picnic tables and benches are being repaired and will be painted in the near future. Additional repairs are being completed in other areas of the park.

Nolan (Nubby) Sims, recently retired Electric Co. employee, has been hired as caretaker. He will be assisted by Jim Johnson.

Other motorists cited were: Earskin R. Mullins, 23, Ecorse, Mich.; $20 and costs for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Everett Carl, 31, Columbus; $15 and costs for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

The following motorists signed waivers of court hearings and paid the fines levied:

Reese J. Capps, 41, Reynoldsburg; $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

John E. Carbel, 19, St. Albans, W. Va.; $20 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Frank Cahill, 35, Route 4; $30 and costs for reckless operation.

Forfeiting a $24 bond was Robert Mackley, 21, Delaware, who was charged with failure to display a license tag.

This information would be essential for determining whether Cooper had achieved the proper orbital course. If the desired path is not achieved, Bermuda then sends a signal to bring Cooper out of orbit immediately.

Cooper had been sitting in his cramped capsule for four hours and 21 minutes. He had entered the capsule after breakfast and a final physical examination.

Astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John H. Glenn Jr., experienced similar frustrations in having their launchings called off at one time after they were on the couches of their space capsules.

Alan B. Shepard Jr., Malcolm Scott Carpenter, and Walter M. Schirra Jr., also went through postponements, but all occurred before they entered the capsule.

The postponement today was the fourth in four months for Cooper's mission.

It originally was scheduled for February, but a shortage of funds resulted in cutback of overtime and the February date slipped until April 2. A subsequent need to alter electrical wiring in the Atlas autopilot pushed the date to May 7. Another week's delay occurred when trouble developed with gyroscopes in the Atlas guidance system.

Today's postponement disappointed Project Mercury officials, more than 700 newsmen gathered at Cape Canaveral to cover the shot, and millions watching television and listening to radio around the world.

A large recovery fleet of 28 ships, 125 planes and 19,000 people was strung out around the world to recover the astronaut no matter where he landed. It will remain on station until the launching is rescheduled.

Before the crucial radar trouble at Bermuda threw a monkey wrench into today's plans, officials had been confident. They announced that they were changing the latest possible launch time from 10:30 a. m. until noon, giving scientists an extra 90 minutes to get the rocket off the ground.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The postponement of the space adventure today was caused by a thoroughly tested, normally reliable radar unit.

Twelve minutes before L. Gordon Cooper Jr. was scheduled to be launched on his 22-orbit, 34 hour flight, Mercury Control called off the mission because a radar unit at Bermuda had broken down.

The radar has been in use on the Atlantic missile range for years, and hasn't caused any difficulty since the early days of the U.S. space effort.

The one located at Bermuda performs a particularly critical job. The 12-foot diameter dish sends radio signals to the Mercury spacecraft as it rises over Bermuda about five minutes after launch.

The signals trigger a device called a radio transponder in the capsule, which sends back an electronic reply. By measuring the time it takes a signal to travel from the Bermuda tracking station to the spacecraft and back again, computers determine the precise velocity and the altitude of the vehicle.

The information is essential in determining whether the spacecraft has hit the right orbital track. If it hasn't, the radar sends a signal to bring it out of orbit.

Common Pleas Jury Hearing Enters 2nd Day of Testimony

A jury trial involving the transfer of stocks to a local woman prior to the death of her mother entered its second day of testimony today in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

Mrs. Florence Jury, 514 N. Court St., is the defendant. The case is an action to set aside the transfer of stocks made by her mother, the late Jessie M. Bitzer, on the "basis of fraud and duress" as claimed by other children and grandchildren of the late Mrs. Bitzer.

Plaintiffs of the court action are Nolan D. Bitzer, M. M. Bates, both of Columbus; William Bitzer, Route 4; Francis R. Bitzer, Chillicothe; all children of Mrs. Bitzer; and Joane Judy, Columbus, and Philip Judy, Route 1, Laurelvale, grandchildren of the decedent.

According to court records, 130 shares of stock were transferred to Mrs. Jury by her mother in August of 1960. The defendants claim the transfer was made as the "result of fraud, duress and undue influence of the defendant."

THE plaintiffs contend that Mrs. Bitzer intended the property to be divided equally and the transfer was not a "free act."

Representing Mrs. Jury are Richard Penn and Ray Davis. Charles M. Rosenberry, Columbus, represents the plaintiffs.

Judge William Ammer is hearing the case.

Rally by Rails Helps Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—A vigorous rally by rails helped push an irregular stock market to the upside on balance early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

Tobaccos also moved ahead in the wake of further price hikes in the industry.

The rails responded to news that a three-man presidential panel has laid down broad guidelines for gradual removal of most firemen from freight and yard trains—the central issue in a work rules dispute that threatens a nationwide rail strike June 12.

Most of the leading carriers advanced, some a point or more. The gains by tobaccos were more moderate, and a continuation of their recent upward trend.

OAS Peace Mission Takes New Look at Haiti Dispute

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—A peace mission of the Organization of American States arrived Monday night for another look at the Haitian-Dominican crisis, raised further by the Dominican Republic's announcement that it is withdrawing troops from the Haitian border.

Part of the OAS fact-finding team was to fly on today to Port au Prince, where opponents of President Francois Duvalier have vowed to assassinate him by Wednesday.

The Dominican government's announcement gave no reason for the troop pullback.

The main consideration apparently was Haiti's gradual release of Duvalier opponents who had taken refuge in Latin-American embassies in Port au Prince, Dominican President Juan Bosch rushed troops to the border two weeks ago after Haitian militiamen invaded the Dominican Embassy in search of refugees there.

AP correspondent William L. Ryan reported from Port au Prince that the consensus there was that Duvalier would survive or start a second presidential term despite opposition vows to destroy him.

Duvalier's first six-year term expires Wednesday. Although the Haitian constitution bars a president's re-election, he is to be inaugurated May 22 for a second six-year term to which he declared himself elected after a rigged election two years ago.

Ryan said fear of an uprising was evidenced by a steady exodus into the countryside.

Opposition leader Clement Barbot, once Duvalier's trusted deputy president, apparently was still heading an underground band somewhere in the country. Interior Minister Luc Francois said reports that Barbot had gone into asylum in the Argentine Embassy were not true.

Barbot, a master of terrorist tactics, has sworn to assassinate Duvalier by Wednesday. Circulars were distributed in Port au Prince several weeks ago threatening that a revolution would start Wednesday.

Reservations for the dinner are to be made by Thursday with Robert Christy, 912 Lincoln Drive.

Park Improvement Now in Full Swing

Considerable improvements have been completed so far this spring at Ted Lewis Park.

Progress on improvement of various facilities was reported today by the Circleville Park Board. Members of the governing body said the projects will continue as money allows.

Jack McGuire has been named chairman of the Park Board. He succeeds Edgar Webb.

In other developments, Harold Anderson has been named as a new member of the three-man Board. He was appointed by Mayor Richard Penn. The third member is J. Ludwig Haacker.

IN THE WAY of recent improvement, McGuire said the stage and storage area at the end of the large shelterhouse has been converted into a garage to house mowers and other equipment. This area also will be used as a workshop where repairs can be made on park equipment.

The basketball court, a popular facility at the park, has been enlarged four feet on each side and six feet at each end. New backboards have been installed. Plans call for the regrading of ground around the court.

McGuire, enthusiastic that more improvements are yet to come, noted that new posts have been placed along both sides of the street past the shelter house. Gravel has been added to the off-street area to make better parking facilities.

He said the Norfolk & Western Railroad has aided the spring program by cleaning up its right-of-way along the park.

New letters have been placed on the Ted Lewis sign to replace those destroyed during the winter. A trailer has been purchased for use of caretakers in cleaning up and other various jobs.

The new Board chairman said picnic tables and benches are being repaired and will be painted in the near future. Additional repairs are being completed in other areas of the park.

Nolan (Nubby) Sims, recently retired Electric Co. employee, has been hired as caretaker. He will be assisted by Jim Johnson.

Radar Fouls

precise velocity and the altitude of the astronaut's vehicle.

This information would be essential for determining whether Cooper had achieved the proper orbital course. If the desired path is not achieved, Bermuda then sends a signal to bring Cooper out of orbit immediately.

Cooper had been sitting in his cramped capsule for four hours and 21 minutes. He had entered the capsule after breakfast and a final physical examination.

Astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John H. Glenn Jr., experienced similar frustrations in having their launchings called off at one time after they were on the couches of their space capsules.

Alan B. Shepard Jr., Malcolm Scott Carpenter, and Walter M. Schirra Jr., also went through postponements, but all occurred before they entered the capsule.

The postponement today was the fourth in four months for Cooper's mission.

It originally was scheduled for February, but a shortage of funds resulted in cutback of overtime and the February date slipped until April 2. A subsequent need to alter electrical wiring in the Atlas autopilot pushed the date to May 7. Another week's delay occurred when trouble developed with gyroscopes in the Atlas guidance system.

Today's postponement disappointed Project Mercury officials, more than 700 newsmen gathered at Cape Canaveral to cover the shot, and millions watching television and listening to radio around the world.

A large recovery fleet of 28 ships, 125 planes and 19,000 people was strung out around the world to recover the astronaut no matter where he landed. It will remain on station until the launching is rescheduled.

Before the crucial radar trouble at Bermuda threw a monkey wrench into today's plans, officials had been confident. They announced that they were changing the latest possible launch time from 10:30 a. m. until noon, giving scientists an extra 90 minutes to get the rocket off the ground.

Rally by Rails Helps Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—A vigorous rally by rails helped push an irregular stock market to the upside on balance early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

Tobaccos also moved ahead in the wake of further price hikes in the industry.

The rails responded to news that a three-man presidential panel has laid down broad guidelines for gradual removal of most firemen from freight and yard trains—the central issue in a work rules dispute that threatens a nationwide rail strike June 12.

Most of the leading carriers advanced, some a point or more. The gains by tobaccos were more moderate, and a continuation of their recent upward trend.

Faulty Radar Unit Usually Very Reliable

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The postponement of the space adventure today was caused by a thoroughly tested, normally reliable radar unit.

Twelve minutes before L. Gordon Cooper Jr. was scheduled to be launched on his 22-orbit, 34 hour flight, Mercury Control called off the mission because a radar unit at Bermuda had broken down.

The radar has been in use on the Atlantic missile range for years, and hasn't caused any difficulty since the early days of the U.S. space effort.

The one located at Bermuda performs a particularly critical job. The 12-foot diameter dish sends radio signals to the Mercury spacecraft as it rises over Bermuda about five minutes after launch.

The signals trigger a device called a radio transponder in the capsule, which sends back an electronic reply. By measuring the time it takes a signal to travel from the Bermuda tracking station to the spacecraft and back again, computers determine the precise velocity and the altitude of the vehicle.

The information is essential in determining whether the spacecraft has hit the right orbital track. If it hasn't, the radar sends a signal to bring it out of orbit.

Common Pleas Jury Hearing Enters 2nd Day of Testimony

A jury trial involving the transfer of stocks to a local woman prior to the death of her mother entered its second day of testimony today in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

Mrs. Florence Jury, 514 N. Court St., is the defendant. The case is an action to set aside the transfer of stocks made by her mother, the late Jessie M. Bitzer, on the "basis of fraud and duress" as claimed by other children and grandchildren of the late Mrs. Bitzer.

Plaintiffs of the court action are Nolan D. Bitzer, M. M. Bates, both of Columbus; William Bitzer, Route 4; Francis R. Bitzer, Chillicothe; all children of Mrs. Bitzer; and Joane Judy, Columbus, and Philip Judy, Route 1, Laurelville, grandchildren of the decedent.

According to court records, 130 shares of stock were transferred to Mrs. Jury by her mother in August of 1960. The defendants claim the transfer was made as the "result of fraud, duress and undue influence of the decedent."

THE plaintiffs contend that Mrs. Bitzer intended the property to be divided equally and the transfer was not a "free act."

Representing Mrs. Jury are Richard Penn and Ray Davis. Charles M. Rosenberg, Columbus, represents the plaintiffs.

The Dominican government's announcement gave no reason for the troop pullback.

The main consideration apparently was Haiti's gradual release of Duvalier opponents who had taken refuge in Latin-American embassies in Port au Prince. Dominican President Juan Bosch rushed troops to the border two weeks ago after Haitian militiamen invaded the Dominican Embassy in search of refugees there.

AP correspondent William L. Ryan reported from Port au Prince that the consensus there was that Duvalier would survive or start a second presidential term despite opposition vows to destroy him.

Duvalier's first six-year term expires Wednesday. Although the Haitian constitution bars a president's re-election, he is to be inaugurated May 22 for a second six-year term to which he declared himself elected after a rigged election two years ago.

Ryan said fear of an uprising was evidenced by a steady exodus into the countryside.

Opposition leader Clement Barbot, once Duvalier's trusted deputy president, apparently was still heading an underground band somewhere in the country. Interior Minister Luc Francois said reports that Barbot had gone into asylum in the Argentine Embassy were not true.

Barbot, a master of terrorist tactics, has sworn to assassinate Duvalier by Wednesday. Circulars were distributed in Port au Prince several weeks ago threatening that a revolution would start Wednesday.

Ohio Payrolls Hit New Peak

2,389,607 Workers
Recorded in State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Payrolls reported by employers covered under the Ohio unemployment compensation law hit an all-time high in the fourth quarter of 1962, according to the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation.

In its summary based on quarterly tax reports of some 102,000 Ohio employers, the bureau says the fourth quarter wages and salaries amounted to $3,455,000,000. This was a 2.8 per cent increase from the last quarter of 1961.

As of last December, covered employment numbered 2,389,607 workers, three-tenths of one per cent up from December 1961. Despite the population growth, it was shy of the all-time high of $2,602,000 reached in 1956.

Contract construction was the only one of the major industry categories that was down in payroll in fourth quarter 1962 from the corresponding part of 1961. The bureau blamed this on severe weather conditions.

Six of Ohio's eight most populous counties had record payrolls last October-November-December. The exceptions were Mahoning and Stark, down 9.3 per cent and 1.5 per cent from 1961, respectively. Reduced activity in primary metals accounted for much of those decreases.

Franklin County led the other largest counties in growth, increasing employment 2.7 per cent from December 1961 and fourth quarter payroll 5.7 per cent above that of 1961.

Cuyahoga County, with 523,493 covered workers and a payroll of $826,388,922 for the three-month period, was down 1.1 per cent from the year before in number of workers but up 2.4 per cent on payroll.

The covered employment total included 1,211,177 manufacturing employees, 607,471 in retail and wholesale trade, 182,879 in services, 146,407 in transportation and utilities, 110,490 in finance, insurance and real estate, 107,472 in contract construction, 18,283 in mining and quarrying and 5,428 miscellaneous. Those were new highs except in construction and mining-quarrying.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—It seems clear that the disorderly forces a president wishes to control may feel free to cut loose unless he says flatly beforehand he will use troops to stop them, if he has to.

President Kennedy used troops in Mississippi and now has them on standby in Alabama. President Eisenhower used them at Little Rock. In each case there was presidential reluctance about employing them.

In each case rioting began before the President decided to use troops.

Eisenhower even went so far in July 1957 as to tell reporters he could imagine no circumstances "that would ever induce me to send federal troops...to enforce the orders of a court."

Within three months Arkansas segregationist rioters kept Negro children from a Little Rock school which a federal court had ordered integrated. Not until then did Eisenhower use troops.

In 1962 a federal court ordered James H. Meredith, Negro, admitted to the University of Mississippi. State officials refused to comply. Mobs blocked U. S. marshals trying to take Meredith into the school.

Kennedy simply sent Meredith back with more marshals. Again there was rioting which lasted for hours and killed two men. Not until then did Kennedy send in troops. There were no more riots.

In the Little Rock and Mississippi cases the presidents used troops to carry out court orders. The Constitution says that a president "shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed."

But no court order was involved in the mass demonstrations in Birmingham last week. Negroes were demanding equal treatment with whites. The demonstrations were not riots although they were getting increasingly explosive.

Because there was no court order and no rioting Kennedy was not under compulsion to employ troops.

But if he had warned he would send in troops if rioting started—as it eventually did—there might not subsequently have been any riots or any provocation which brought them on.

While the whole situation was still unpredictable last week—before the rioting started—Kennedy told his news conference.

"I've made it clear since assuming the presidency that I would use all available means to protect human rights and uphold the law of the land."

But then, while acknowledging the Birmingham problem was still not settled, he said the demonstrations involved no federal law. The lawless elements in Birmingham might have concluded from this that Kennedy lacked legal authority for using troops to keep order.

At week's end criminals bombed Birmingham Negro dwellings Negroes rioted against white police. Negroes and police were injured. It was too late then to use troops to prevent disorders. There were none handy.

The rioting ended, perhaps temporarily, with the danger of exploding again at any time. Then Kennedy sent troops into Alabama, not into Birmingham, but to military bases near it.

Alabama's segregationist governor, George C. Wallace, instantly challenged Kennedy to explain his authority for using troops.

When Kennedy announced the troop movement Sunday night he had not explained his authority. Justice Department lawyers, when first asked about it by newsmen, beat around the bush.

They then gave this explanation: Kennedy was acting under federal authority—Title 10, Section 33, of the U. S. Code. It empowers a president to use troops to suppress "domestic violence, unlawful combination or conspiracy" if it interferes with, or denies, citizens of rights or protections guaranteed them by the Constitution.

Monday Kennedy messaged Wallace this same explanation. But Wallace insisted again, both at a news conference and in a second telegram to Kennedy, that the United States cannot legally call out Army units as long as state and local officers can and will put down violence.

Ohio Peach Crop Ruined during Winter

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—There will be no commercial peach crop in Ohio this year because of the sub-zero winter cold.

Eldon S. Banta, an assistant professor in agricultural extension service at Ohio State University, said Monday production probably will be less than 5 per cent of the normal million bushels a year.

Slower buds which formed fast June or July, and would have been this year's peaches, were killed by the cold, Banta explained. Additionally, he said, "some wood" was killed on many trees. New growth, particularly branches, often was affected, but the base of the trunk also is vulnerable, Banta said.

This does not destroy the production of the tree, but does reduce it.

Banta called it the worst cold spell for peach trees since 1935-36.

Several hundred Ohio farmers, particularly those who concentrate on peaches and apples, are afected Banta said. Much of the state's peach growing is done in Ottawa, Lorain, Erie, Ashtabula, Lake and Sandusky counties, and northeast Ohio.

Men Probably Will Rebel

For some reason even noted poets have been unable to unravel, spring continues to be the silly season of the year. This year is no exception, as proved by the announcement from New York that men's suits are to be given the stretch treatment this fall. Form-fitting suits made of elasticized material which give with a bend and snap back into skin-tight shape may be in the offing.

Fashion designers for years have been thwarted by the conservative clothing tastes of the American male. If he did not rebel, he would probably find himself alternately wearing knickers, waistcoats of brightly colored tapestries and cavalier hats replete with plumes.

But now, surreptitiously and without prior announcement, the male clothing industry is feverishly working on revolutionary new materials for men's suits. Perhaps because the garment designers detect a sign of weakness in male acceptance of the currently popular trousers with the slim silhouette — or possibly to get even with men for their general conformity to clothing free of feminine adornment — the industry is about to attack with a snap and a pop.

To prove that the season of the year must have been a heavy contributor to the conception of male stretch suits, there has even been a suggestion that one fashion phase include leotard pants, or something resembling the skin-tight britches common in the court of King Henry VIII.

To which the American male will throw down his gauntlet, snarl and "oh, yeah!" and snap his galluses.

Vacation Time at Hand

Vacation days will soon be at hand. Throughout the land plans are being completed and road maps studied, as against that bright morning when he family car will be headed in the direction of mountains or lakes or oceans. Then will follow days or weeks of hectic travel, nights spent in anything but comfortable surroundings, strange food and strange beds.

All of this, of course, is understood before the trip is undertaken, and whatever inconveniences are suffered are the price paid for the privilege of getting away for a brief period from the humdrum of life.

To that extent vacations are essential. They bring change of scenery. No small part of the joy is in the weeks of planning, the discussions over where to go and what to see. Father gets away from the job, mother out of the kitchen. As for the children, travel for whatever purpose is an adventure.

It is when the trip has ended and the family again is at home the real benefit is discovered. There is a revival of contentment with familiar surroundings, the satisfaction of again being under one's own roof. Vacation vexations are only an unpleasant memory. Father boasts of the big fish he caught, the miles per gallon he made with the old car. Mother is back among her own activities.

The vacation was a success.

Chile Good Example

David Rockefeller, head of the Chase Manhattan Bank, issued a ringing call the other day for the U. S. business community to get in there and pitch with some good advice to those in charge of Latin American aid programs under the Alliance for Progress. The Rockefeller call was evoked a rather deafening silence. It's not that business men are unwilling to help, but they are manifestly tired of being kicked around as "exploiters" when they point out that investors are timid about risking funds in countries where Marxist parties are on the rise.

The case of Chile, where a Marxist election victory is freely predicted, is a particularly interesting one, for here is a temperate zone land with great natural endowments that should be attracting more and more private capital from abroad. Indeed, Chile has already done very well for itself simply because international copper companies like Anaconda, Kennecott and the French Societe Miniere et Metallurgique de Penarroya are there. If the Chileans, unlike other peoples in Latin America, have a middle class, it is due to the "foreign exploiters" of a natural resource that would have remained useless in local hands.

The Chilean Marxists, muttering nineteenth century cliches about "imperialism," speak of copper exports as if they had brought nothing to the country. And the international copper companies don't dare argue back, for if they did

they would be accused of making self-serving statements or trying to interfere with local elections. Standing mute, they let the case go by default.

But it shouldn't be permitted to go by default. In the first place, the Chilean government does very well by itself from the taxes on copper exports, taking two-thirds and more of the profits on mining operations for its own use. It would hardly do better if the mines were nationalized, for it would stand to lose more in inefficiency than it would gain from total seizure of the product. The disillusioning experience of Pemex, the Mexican national oil monopoly whose payrolls are clogged with adherents of the majority political party, is instructive here.

This is not the main point, however. The real benefits accruing to a country like Chile from the presence of so-called "imperialists" is that foreign companies breed domestic companies, in an ever-widening complex that helps turn a primitive economy into a modern one.

If a "foreign" mining company in Chile wants construction done, it has to enlist the help of companies like Neut Latour or Ingecil, if it needs steel, it goes to Cap or Compac as well as the Chilean branch of Armo; if it wants foundry work, it relies on Fundicion Libertad, Carbu y Metalurgica or Electrometallurgica; if it is in the market for more electrical authority; if it requires fuel oil, it must tap Enap, the government oil monopoly. The "foreigner" thus builds up organizations with reassuring local names, personnel and ownership, which is another way of saying that he helps create an affluent and progressive middle class that differs considerably from the traditional land-owning aristocracy that sends its wealth to Switzerland for safe-keeping.

Meanwhile, standards of health and education rise. In Chilean mining communities the infant mortality rate is 35 per thousand figure for the North American state of Mississippi. The "foreigner" gives laboratories to local universities, and even helps pay for the installation of an educational TV station at the Catholic University in Valparaiso. He helps establish the first industrial hygiene and safety curriculum at the University of Concepcion. Local people are sent abroad by the "foreigner" to study industrial relations, medicine, teaching, management, engineering, smelting and milling — and when they return home to Chile they do not necessarily remain for long on the "foreigner's" payroll.

Now the American companies that mine copper in Chile would be caught dead before claiming in public that they can do more to build a local middle class than any Chilean-owned copper company might do. I had to be put on to this story by an ex-employee of a copper company who now works for the U. S. government in Washington. He can afford to speak the truth without worrying about whether it would be called self-serving or not.

Try and Stop Me
By BENNETT CERF

A YOUNG PLAYWRIGHT scored an unexpected hit with an off-Broadway production, and suddenly affluent, decided to make his first visit to Paris. As a first step, he enrolled in a course guaranteed to teach French in twenty lessons. It soon became apparent, however, that he had no ear for foreign languages. After a fortnight of travail he not only quit the class, but abandoned his plan to fly abroad. "My job now is reversed," he assured his manager. "All I've got to do is FORGET my French word a day. My word to forget today is MERCI."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...
By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

When Junior falls off his bike or steps on a nail, his parents often attempt to transmit their concern and anxiety about tetanus to the doctors. Families sometimes put undue pressure on doctors to give children anti-tetanus injections after an injury.

The conservative judgment of the doctor must be respected, for he knows that, despite the thousands of injuries that occur each year in the United States, only about 300 cases of tetanus are reported.

Yet there are perhaps 75,000 cases of allergic reactions, many very serious, to the tetanus antitoxin which is given for relatively minor injuries. Reactions to this antitoxin are sometimes extremely distressing.

At the Harvard School of Public Health, Dr. Edsall emphasizes that all severe reactions to tetanus antitoxin could be avoided if all people had been vaccinated and immunized against tetanus. This would automatically eliminate the need for the anti-tetanus shot in acute injuries.

Although the task of mass vaccination seems formidable, this plan could be accomplished with persistent education by public health officials in communities all over the United States.

Progress in the surgical removal of cataracts of the eye seems to be endless.

From Lublin, Poland, now comes a valuable addition to the surgical techniques that have already returned normal sight to so many. Dr. Krawicz has ingeniously devised a metal rod which, when cooled to sub-zero temperature, is used as a surgical instrument. It is painlessly applied to the capsule of the cataract. The cloudy lens is thus safely removed in one piece.

This particular method is one of the many that the eye surgeon can choose to use in any particular case. The choice of a procedure is based entirely on the surgeon's extensive experience, his technical skill and his deliberate judgment.

The Massachusetts General Hospital and the New York Memorial Hospital have released an interesting study on the rejuvenation of the liver. It seems that the liver has remarkable recuperative power.

The Business World
By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — Hundreds of companies and dozens of American communities have a financial stake in the ventures into space. The stake is about $15 billion now and is growing rapidly.

Often the individual fortunes and prospects of corporations and cities can change overnight. The space industry has perhaps the fastest rate of obsolescence.

What man will discover out there can't be foretold with certainty. Nor can the new demands the nation will make upon industry to meet the challenge of still more novel space programs which seem likely to spring from some of the $7 billion which the government is pouring this year into military research.

A new government order can spell prosperity for a firm and the communities housing its plants. A sudden cancellation of government orders — and some have been like ones — can wreck the prospects at one blow.

One big changeover for the industry came when the Defense Department's eyes turned from aircraft to missiles. Orders for new planes dropped from 9000 a year to around 2000. But corporations that could make missiles got the new fat orders and hundreds of companies supplying parts bloomed.

The changeover was felt in other ways. Making planes calls for much larger plants and the use of much more raw materials than missiles. The numbers and skills of workers are far different too. Many communities felt the change sharply and the whole economy to some extent.

Now there's apparently another change. Orders for new missiles are beginning to level off. The new emphasis is on fewer but more expensive units. Changing needs are part of the reason the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's spending has gone up from $339 million in 1959 to a request for $57 billion in the coming year.

Today's emphasis on building rockets that can boost man toward the moon and beyond may shift to contracts for the actual spacecraft.

The stock market has watched all this with some confusion at first and considerable caution of late. A big new contract will give a company's stock a boost and a cancellation will topple it.

The big questions for investors still will be: Just which company will or can make the particular device that so volatile an endeavor as conquering space—and doing it first—will demand and which will see its expensively developed product dubbed obsolete.

Uncle Miltie — Still Center Stage
By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — The big fellow waved a seven-inch cigar and almost set on fire Olivia de Havilland, seated at the next dining room table.

"I predict it will bring in $100 million to $125 million, the greatest gross of all time," boomed Milton Berle. "It is the greatest comedy classic of the last 50 years. It will never wear out. The perpetuity of it is fantastic."

"Why, they destroy 38 brand new cars in it."

"Why, the screen writer, William Rose, got $350,000 and a percentage of the picture for a two-paragraph letter outlining the idea — the most ever paid for a comedy script."

The film is Stanley Kramer's "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," a multimillion dollar production starring Berle and 14 others. They include Spencer Tracy, Ethel Merman, Sid Caesar, Dorothy Provine, Edie Adams, Mickey Rooney, Jonathan Winters and Jimmy Durante.

"What impressed you most about the film?" asked an innocent bystander.

"I don't know—I haven't seen it yet," said Berle.

Nearing 55, Uncle Miltie is celebrating his 50th year in show business.

"As my wife remarked, it took me 50 years to be a star overnight," he said.

His friends say time has changed the irrepressible comic, turned him into a calmer, more relaxed man. Maybe so. But wherever Uncle Miltie is—that's still the center of the stage. "I've cut down from 17 cigars a day to 10," he said, "and I like to spend more time at home with my family. I still like to do two films a year, a couple of TV shows and eight weeks in night clubs."

"I'll never give up the night clubs because of the feeling of rapport you get working with a live audience. I love it."

Although he says he's tired of traveling, he'll spend nine weeks this summer touring with a tent show in the leading role of "Top Banana." The big appeal to him here again is a new kind of live audience.

But he has no regrets that his days as "Mr. Television," a title he held for 10 years, are over.

"I've had my share of television," he remarked. "And I'm well taken care of financially."

"In 1951 I signed a 30-year exclusive network contract with NBC under which they'll pay me until 1981—I have to dignify money—an amount that runs to six figures a year."

That, of course, means a minimum $3 million during the life of the contract.

EVER HAPPEN TO YOU? By Blake

WELL, I MUST SAY - THAT LOOKS A LOT BETTER!

Two advisers—one a lieutenant and the other a sergeant—were slain last Monday in widely separated parts of the Red-infested country.

The lieutenant and two South Vietnamese with him were sprayed with machine-gun bullets after a Communist grenade sent their Jeep careening into a tree.

The sergeant was dropped by a Communist sniper while he was out with a South Vietnamese patrol.

According to Pentagon figures, 36 American military men — 26 Army and 10 Air Force—have died as the result of what the defense department calls "actions by hostile forces" in South Viet Nam since Jan. 1, 1961. Another 49 are listed as having died from noncombat causes.

Officers who had served in South Viet Nam say many more Americans would have been slain if the Reds had been gunning for them.

The officers note that American advisers often are in action with Vietnamese units, that the bigger U.S. soldiers stand out clearly from the generally short and slim Vietnamese and thus could be prime targets.

Some U.S. officers say they think the Communist guerrillas have tried in the past to avoid killing Americans, possibly to keep from provoking the United States into a more direct and larger combat role in the war.

Now they are not sure this still is true. They are waiting to see if a trend or pattern develops.

At least three other Americans have been shot and killed in cold blood after being wounded, records show.

In addition to the 8 American servicemen listed as killed in South Viet Nam, the Defense Department counts 167 as wounded by hostile action. One man is missing.

Men Probably Will Rebel

For some reason even noted poets have been unable to unravel, spring continues to be the silly season of the year. This year is no exception, as proved by the announcement from New York that men's suits are to be given the stretch treatment this fall. Form-fitting suits made of elasticized material which give with a bend and snap back into skin-tight shape may be in the offing.

Fashion designers for years have been thwarted by the conservative clothing tastes of the American male. If he did not rebel, he would probably find himself alternately wearing knickers, waistcoats of brightly colored tapestries and cavalier hats replete with plumes.

But now, surreptitiously and without prior announcement, the male clothing industry is feverishly working on revolutionary new materials for men's suits. Perhaps because the garment designers detect a sign of weakness in male acceptance of the currently popular trousers with the slim silhouette — or possibly to get even with men for their general conformity to clothing free of feminine adornment — the industry is about to attack with a snap and a pop.

To prove that the season of the year must have been a heavy contributor to the conception of male stretch suits, there has even been a suggestion that one fashion phase include leotard pants, or something resembling the skin-tight britches common in the court of King Henry VIII.

To which the American male will throw down his gauntlet, snarl and "oh, yeah!" and snap his galluses.

Vacation days will soon be at hand. Throughout the land plans are being completed and road maps studied, as against that bright morning when he family car will be headed in the direction of mountains or lakes or oceans. Then will follow days or weeks of hectic travel, nights spent in anything but comfortable surroundings, strange food and strange beds.

All of this, of course, is understood before the trip is undertaken, and whatever inconveniences are suffered are the price paid for the privilege of getting away for a brief period from the humdrum of life.

To that extent vacations are essential. They bring change of scenery. No small part of the joy is in the weeks of planning, the discussions over where to go and what to see. Father gets away from the job, mother out of the kitchen. As for the children, travel for whatever purpose is an adventure.

It is when the trip has ended and the family again is at home the real benefit is discovered. There is a revival of contentment with familiar surroundings, the satisfaction of again being under one's own roof. Vacation vexations are only an unpleasant memory. Father boasts of the big fish he caught, the miles per gallon he made with the old car. Mother is back among her own activities.

The vacation was a success.

Chile Good Example

By John Chamberlain

David Rockefeller, head of the Chase Manhattan Bank, issued a ringing call the other day for the U. S. business community to get in there and pitch with some good advice to those in charge of Latin American aid programs under the Alliance for Progress. The Rockefeller call was evoked a rather deafening silence. It's not that business men are unwilling to help, but they are manifestly tired of being kicked around as "exploiters" when they point out that investors are timid about risking funds in countries where Marxist parties are on the rise.

The case of Chile, where a Marxist election victory is freely predicted, is a particularly interesting one, for here is a temperate zone land with great natural endowments that should be attracting more and more private capital from abroad. Indeed, Chile has already done very well for itself simply because international copper companies like Anaconda, Kennecott and the French Societe Miniere et Metallurgique de Penarroya are there. If the Chileans, unlike other peoples in Latin America, have a middle class, it is due to the "foreign exploiters" of a natural resource that would have remained useless in local hands.

The Chilean Marxists, muttering nineteenth century cliches about "imperialism," speak of copper exports as if they had brought nothing to the country. And the international copper companies don't dare argue back, for if they did

they would be accused of making self-serving statements or trying to interfere with local elections. Standing mute, they let the case go by default.

But it shouldn't be permitted to go by default. In the first place, the Chilean government does very well by itself from the taxes on copper exports, taking two-thirds and more of the profits on mining operations for its own use. It would hardly do better if the mines were nationalized, for it would stand to lose more in inefficiency than it would gain from total seizure of the product. The disillusioning experience of Pemex, the Mexican national oil monopoly whose payrolls are clogged with adherents of the majority political party, is instructive here.

This is not the main point, however. The real benefits accruing to a country like Chile from the presence of so-called "imperialists" is that foreign companies breed domestic companies, in an ever-widening complex that helps turn a primitive economy into a modern one.

If a "foreign" mining company in Chile wants construction done, it has to enlist the help of companies like Neut Latour or Ingeciel; if it needs steel, it goes to Cap or Compac as well as the Chilean branch of Arco; if it wants foundry work, it relies on Fundicion Libertad, Carbuco y Metalurgica or Electrometalurgica; if it is in the market for more electrical authority; if it requires fuel oil, it must tap Enap, the government oil monopoly. The "foreigner" thus builds up organizations with reassuring local names, personnel and ownership, which is another way of saying that he helps create an affluent and progressive middle class that differs considerably from the traditional land-owning aristocracy that sends its wealth to Switzerland for safe-keeping.

Meanwhile, standards of health and education rise. In Chilean mining communities the infant mortality rate is 35 per thousand figure for the North American state of Mississippi. The "foreigner" gives laboratories to local universities, and even helps pay for the installation of an education of an educational TV station at the Catholic University in Valparaiso. He helps establish the first industrial hygiene and safety curriculum at the University of Concepcion. Local people are sent abroad by the "foreigner" to study industrial relations, medicine, teaching, management, engineering, smelting and milling — and when they return home to Chile they do not necessarily remain for long on the "foreigner's" payroll.

Now the American companies that mine copper in Chile would be caught dead before claiming in public that they can do more to build a local middle class than any Chilean-owned copper company might do. I had to be put on to this story by an ex-employee of a copper company who now works for the U. S. government in Washington. He can afford to speak the truth without worrying about whether it would be called serving or not.

Dear Abby: It Depends, Lady!

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After seven years of marriage, my husband and I have finally resolved this universal problem. He couldn't resist flirting, and I couldn't help getting furious about it. So we agreed that from that moment on it would cost him $10 a wink to flirt. It's been months since we made that deal, and he has been exposed to many pretty girls in my presence, and so far I haven't collected a dime. I don't kid myself that he doesn't flirt behind my back for free, but at least he doesn't hurt my feelings any more. Clever?

DEAR ABBY: I hope you know what you're doing. Most women prefer to have their husbands flirt openly—then they know where their competition is. You've driven yours underground. Not so clever.

and I keep on having fights about spaghetti. He says you should eat it with a spoon and I say you should eat it with a fork. Will you please tell me who is right?

SANDRA
DEAR SANDRA: You are both right! Place a spoon (large) in your left hand, and a fork in your right. "Twist" the spaghetti you've forked up into the hollow of the spoon until it forms a bit-sized ball. And eat it with the fork. But be sure your left hand knows what your right hand is doing.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this specifically for junior and senior high school students:

I am a senior at an accredited high school. I am considered an average student and, like many average students, I could have done much better.

Today, in the mail, I received a "turn down" from a nearby college in response to my application for admission. It was quite a shock. I just want to say to all students who want to go to college: STUDY NOW! Don't wait until your last semester of high school before you buckle down.

Useful, Versatile Designs

CONVERTIBLE — This lazy susan table easily converts into a seating unit when a queen-size cushion is added. It is one of the many items now on the market which serve a dual purpose.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Furniture designers are getting the message and they're giving women what they want in furniture — versatility and practicality.

Among the many new designs that prove this point are three that attracted considerable attention at the big furniture market held recently in Chicago.

One is a table that makes entertaining take a new turn. It's a big, low, round Lazy Susan design with a 42-inch diameter. The table top is alcohol-proof walnut wood-grain melamine plastic laminate.

But there's more to this table than meets the eye. It converts, quick as a wink, into a seating unit. All you do is add a comfortable cushion, padded with urethane foam, that has a nylon slipcover.

Another versatile newcomer is designed as a serving cart, tea wagon, room divider or foyer accent piece. It's a cabinet on wheels, with roomy storage space. A flip of the hand doubles its top surface, which is extended by two leaves that open, revealing a carefree black melamine plastic serving area.

Even sofa-beds are more versatile than ever before. One has a storage ace-in-the-hole built into its base. This roomy compartment is a stowaway spot for pillows and blankets.

The sofa itself is Italian Provincial. It's upholstered in vinyl and padded with urethane foam for extra sleeping as well as seating comfort.

If you're in the market for furnishings keep an eye out for these doubly useful designs. They were ordered by buyers at the furniture market and are just now beginning to appear in the stores.

The May meeting of the Salem's Womens Society of Christian Service was held in the home of Mrs. Ralph Ankrom.

Mrs. Ankrom, vice president, opened the session with the devotionals reading from 11 Corinthians. The theme for the evening was "You are a Missionary Too".

Mrs. Ira Barr, president, conducted the business meeting. Committees for 1963-64 were appointed. Eighteen sick calls were reported. New officers were installed by Mrs. Jesse Hildenbrand.

A dessert course was served to 17 members and three visitors.

The Jaycee Wives will meet 8 p. m. today in the home of Mrs. Larry Priest, Route 3.

If you are planning to use frozen pineapple juice in a gelatin dessert boil the juice for a couple of minutes before using. This boiling inactivates certain enzymes in frozen (and fresh) pineapple that interfere with the jelling process.

Pine Oil Is Excellent Cleaning Aid

By ELEANOR ROSS

We're discovering that pine trees do more than decorate our landscape, sweeten the country air, panel the game room and look pretty at Christmas. Their oil helps to keep our houses clean.

Pine oil is a natural solvent as well as a disinfectant, which is why the wide variety of pine oil cleaners does such a fine job and helps to make some of the harder household chores easier.

When cleaning a bathroom, pour a little full-strength pine oil disinfectant into the toilet bowl, washbasin, shower or tub. Let stand for a few minutes while you do the rug shaking, towel changing and other odd jobs. Then a quick wipe of the cloth and porcelain and tile surfaces will be cleaned and disinfected in one operation — with the air left fragrant for a long while afterward.

Cleaning a shower curtain is easy enough with a pine cleaner. Put pine cleaner solution in the tub, soak the shower curtain and then rinse under the shower. The dirt and deposits from water and soap will float away with a minimum of wiping off.

We like a pine cleaner for the basement, garage, patio and pet's quarters to clean, disinfect and deodorize these areas all at once and with speedy effectiveness.

Pre-treat grease spots first with full-strength pine cleaner. Then, for the final scrub-up, mix about one cup of pine cleaner to three gallons of water. This will also take care of odors from grease, paint and pets.

Full-strength pine cleaner solution on a sponge will do a fine job of getting whitewall tires bright again. Rinse well with clear water and you'll have spanking clean wheels to roll you along on your next trip.

For the cookout, as soon as the grill coals, soak it in a pine cleaner "bath."

If the grill is too big to immerse, soak a sponge in full-strength pine cleaner and lean the grill up against the brick barbecue pit or metal base of a portable grill. This way, grease and caked-on food dissolve away.

Complete the job by swishing clear hot water over the grill and wiping off with a sponge or paper towels.

And, for a final piney touch, it's nice to treat oneself, when the workday schedule is completed, to a fragrant bath with one of the many delicious pine bath oils on the market. Makes a nice gift too!

Deb Shop

CHATTER

According to a survey by a psychologist, a man will eat anything in sight if he is hungry enough. But in times of plenty most people base their choice of food on emotional values. Some turn to food products of milk and milk substances in time of stress.

Chocolate candy, hot dogs and nuts seem to satisfy a sorry-for-yourself feeling. Coffee and tea which might have been forbidden in childhood, tend to give a grown-up feeling and prove that one is really adult. Caviar and smelly cheese are prestige foods and have a snobbish appeal.

If a woman resents her husband, she sometimes serves him things he definitely does not like, even burns the biscuits and brings forth stale bread! This causes him to criticize and the next thing you know he is paying alimony. It all seems to go in a vicious circle, feed a man well and you will keep him happy; keep a woman happy and she will feed him well.

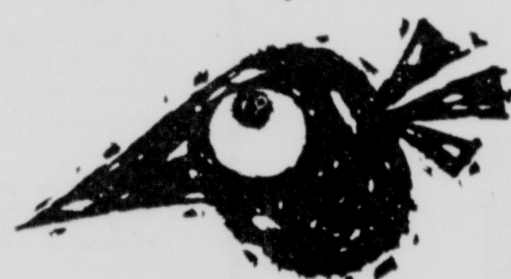

Since we are not in the grocery business, we have another suggestion that will keep a woman happy — something new to wear — naturally, purchased at The Deb Shop.

This is one time when happiness comes at bargain prices. We are having a special sale on spring suits, raincoats, and a few spring dresses. All are junior sizes. Styles and colors are limited, but you will be sure to find something smart and wearable at the price you want to pay. Because of the varied range of prices, it is impossible to quote them all, but the reduction is substantial, and it is much more fun to see for yourself.

While you are here, you will want to select some summer cottons. They are simply beautiful! For town and country wear, you cannot beat a shirt-dress; and the Craig dresses are the prettiest ever.

We hope to be seeing you. Remember the place... it is The Deb Shop, W. Main St. —Advertisement

High Court Shuns Blue Sky Law Look

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has refused to review conviction of Edgar I. Shott Jr., of Cincinnati, on a charge of violating Ohio's blue sky law.
The court dismissed his appeal without giving any explanation. Justice Black noted that he favored hearing the appeal.
Shott's appeal said he was sentenced to one to five years' imprisonment after giving a promissory note to Patrick Sestito, an old friend. The note was for $2,250 and Sestito was paid in full for his loan after 60 days.
The appeal stated that the prosecutor in closing argument in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court "repeatedly stated that, contrary to the evidence, there was a series of transactions constituting a public offering of appellant's (Shott's) promissory notes."
The appeal also protested that the trial court told the jury that the Sestito note was a security under the state's blue sky law; it was not registered as required by statute; Shott was a "dealer" required to be licensed; the making of the Sestito note constituted "the sale of a security" under the state law.
Such a law as applied to Shott, the appeal said, violated the U. S. Constitution because of vagueness and indefiniteness.

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — While Athens County authorities are searching for Mrs. Pauline Cruikshank, 45, of Chaucery, officially listed as missing since Sunday, the State Bureau of Motor Vehicles is auditing her books. She is a deputy registrar.
State Registrar Dave Mainwaring says a preliminary audit shows a $1,174 shortage. Missing with her is a 10-year-old girl who lives with the family.

The estate was purchased in 1952 by Armand Hammer of California from Roosevelt's son Elliott.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:
PUNISHMENT: The House has given a form of official sanction to the old adage "Spare the rod and spoil the child."
It passed legislation Monday that would allow teachers in the nation's capital to physically punish unruly pupils.
This back-to-the-woodshed move was recommended by a study of the district's public schools after a riot broke out last Thanksgiving at a city high school football championship game between a predominantly white Catholic school and a predominantly Negro public school.
The House sent the measure to the Senate by a 271 to 53 roll call vote.
Another measure that would permit suspension or expulsion of incorrigible youngsters within the age of compulsory attendance was approved without dissent.
NO NEWS CONFERENCE: The White House announced Monday that President Kennedy will not hold a news conference this week.

Veterans May Borrow on GI Insurance

Veterans holding permanent GI life insurance policies need not surrender them for cash in order to meet financial emergencies, James P. Shea, local Veterans Service officer, said today.
Shea stated these veterans may borrow up to 94 per cent of their policies' cash surrender value. This action, while reducing the amount of protection, does leave the policy in force.
Once surrendered for cash, however, all protection under the insurance would cease and could not be renewed nor reinstated, Shea said.
Money borrowed and not repaid would be deducted from the policy proceeds due to beneficiary should the veteran die, he continued. Annual interest on GI policy loans charged at four per cent on the unpaid balance and must be paid on or before the due date, Shea warned. If not paid, it is added to the loan principal and begins to draw interest; should this condition continue, the interest might consume the remaining cash value of the policy.
Repayment on the principal of the loan, Shea continued, may be made in amounts of $5 or any multiple thereof and at any time before default in payment of premiums.

Loans can be made only on permanent - type GI insurance policies, he said. GI term insurance has no loan value.
Veterans interested in securing loans on their GI insurance should contact the Veterans Service Officer in his office in the basement of the Courthouse.
Which Way?
MIAMI (AP) — Municipal officials and the Chamber of Commerce of suburban South Miami worked for months to have the State Road Department install signs on busy U. S. 1 showing the direction to the business district.
Finally a road crew installed big, new signs and left.
The signs pointed the wrong way.

His previous one was last Wednesday.
PUBLIC DEFENDERS: "To a serious extent, the scales of justice in this country are weighted against the poor." So testified Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to the Senate Judiciary Committee, Monday.
He and William P. Rogers, attorney general in the Eisenhower administration, both supported an administration bill to provide counsel and other legal services in federal criminal cases for defendants unable to pay for them.
THE LIGHT SIDE: With tongue in cheek, President Kennedy reminded 79 foreign military officers of the warning that military men should stay out of politics.
"But I must say," he added, "that politics brought me from being an obscure lieutenant in the Navy to commander in chief in 14 years."
He also had some serious words for the officers, from 50 countries, who just completed a course in the Army's Command and General Staff School at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Showers of the past 24 hours produced a one-tenth of an inch average over the northern counties of Ohio and three-fourths of an inch over the southern counties.

The heaviest rain was reported in the Cincinnati area with amounts of one to three inches in various parts of the city.

The cold and warm front system which produced the showers had moved to the Ohio River and was continuing eastward early today. A few showers continued below Marietta, but for other sections of the state, dry westerly winds had arrived.

The sun had broken through over the northern and central counties early today and skies were in the process of clearing over the south.

The morning weather map shows high pressure reaching from the northern Plains States to Northwest Ohio. The high pressure area will control Ohio's weather, resulting in dry weather for all sections Wednesday and Thursday.

The temperatures early today ranged from 51 at Toledo to 65 at Zanesville. Cincinnati had 63, Columbus 62 and Cleveland 57.

6 BUC Offices To Be Closed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Administrator Willard P. Budley of the Bureau of Unemployment compensation announced today that administrative offices in Cleveland, Youngstown, Canton, Cincinnati, Toledo and Columbus will be closed.

These district offices supervised local BUC offices without rendering direct service to the public, he explained.

He said the entire administrative setup will be returned to Columbus. About half the 56 employees in the half dozen offices will be retained in other departments of the BUC.

"The primary purpose of the elimination of these district offices is to streamline organization and to provide better service," Budley said in a prepared statement.

Women's News

Dear Abby:

It Depends, Lady!

DEAR ABBY: After seven years of marriage, my husband and I have finally resolved this universal problem. He couldn't resist flirting, and I couldn't help getting furious about it. So we agreed that from that moment on it would cost him $10 a wink to flirt. It's been months since we made that deal, and he has been exposed to many pretty girls in my presence, and so far I haven't collected a dime. I don't kick myself that he doesn't flirt behind my back for free, but at least he doesn't hurt my feelings any more. Clever?

PROBLEM SOLVED
DEAR ABBY: I hope you know what you're doing. Most women prefer to have their husbands flirt openly—then they know who their competition is. You've driven yours underground. Not so clever.

DEAR ABBY: My stepfather Miss Sells, Mr. Mac Groff Are Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow M. Sells of 45 Madison Avenue, Mt. Sterling, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Lynn, to Mr. Robert Mac Groff, grandson of Mrs. Wanda McCafferty, Route 5, Washington, C. H.

The bride-elect is a graduate of The Plains High School in Mt. Sterling and Mr. Jon of Columbus' School of Modeling and Self-improvement. She is also a graduate of Nationwide Beauty Academy where she is presently employed as an instructor.

Her fiancé was graduated from Madison Mills High School and is a senior in the college of education at Ohio State University where he is majoring in Comprehensive Sciences and Mathematics.

The open-church wedding will be an event of August 4 at 2:30 p. m. in The First Methodist Church, Mt. Sterling.

Useful, Versatile Designs

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN
Furniture designers are getting the message and they're giving women what they want in furniture — versatility and practicality.

Among the many new designs that prove this point are three that attracted considerable attention at the big furniture market held recently in Chicago.

One is a table that makes entertaining take a new turn. It's a big, low, round Lazy Susan design with a 42-inch diameter. The table top is alcohol-proof walnut wood-grain melamine plastic laminate.

But there's more to this table than meets the eye. It converts, quick as a wink, into a seating unit. All you do is add a comfortable cushion, padded with urethane foam, that has a nylon slipcover.

Another versatile newcomer is designed as a serving cart, tea wagon, room divider or foyer accent piece.

It's a cabinet on wheels, with roomy storage space.

A flip of the hand doubles its top surface, which is extended by two leaves that open, revealing a care-free black melamine plastic serving area.

Even sofa-beds are more versatile than ever before. One has a storage ace-in-the-hole built into its base. This roomy compartment is a stowaway spot for pillows and blankets.

If you're in the market for furnishings keep an eye out for these doubly useful designs. They were ordered by buyers at the furniture market and are just now beginning to appear in the stores.

Pine Oil Is Excellent Cleaning Aid

By ELEANOR ROSS
We're discovering that pine trees do more than decorate our landscape, sweeten the country air, panel the game room and look pretty at Christmas. Their oil helps to keep our houses clean.

Pine oil is a natural solvent as well as a disinfectant, which is why the wide variety of pine oil cleaners does such a fine job and helps to make some of the harder household chores easier.

When cleaning a bathroom, pour a little full-strength pine oil disinfectant into the toilet bowl, washbasin, shower or tub. Let stand for a few minutes while you do the rug shaking, towel changing and other odd jobs. Then a quick wipe of the cloth and porcelain and tile surfaces will be cleaned and disinfected in one operation — with the air left fragrant for a long while afterward.

Cleaning a shower curtain is easy enough with a pine cleaner. Put pine cleaner solution in the tub, soak the shower curtain and then rinse under the shower. The dirt and deposits from water and soap will float away with a minimum of wiping off.

We like a pine cleaner for the basement, garage, patio and pet's quarters to clean, disinfect and deodorize these areas all at once and with speedy effectiveness.

Pre-treat grease spots first with full-strength pine cleaner. Then, for the final scrub-up, mix about one cup of pine cleaner to three gallons of water. This will also take care of odors from grease, paint and pets.

Full-strength pine cleaner solution on a sponge will do a fine job of getting whitewall tires bright again. Rinse well with clear water and you'll have spanking clean wheels to roll you along on your next trip.

For the cookout, as soon as the grill cooks, soak it in a pine cleaner "bath."

If the grill is too big to immerse, soak a sponge in full strength pine cleaner and lean the grill up against the brick barbecue pit or metal base of a portable grill. This way, grease and caked-on food dissolve away.

Complete the job by swishing clear hot water over the grill and wiping off with a sponge or paper towels.

Spring Planting Reported Well Above Normal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reports that despite moisture shortages in some areas the proportion of many spring crops seeded by May 1 was well ahead of normal, particularly over the eastern half of the nation.

Nevertheless, there were indications that drought might play an important role in determining this year's production. Dry weather fed the department to reduce its winter wheat estimates 5 per cent from that of a month earlier.

On the basis of May 1 conditions, winter wheat was put at 855 million bushels, down 42 million from a month earlier but 68 million more than was produced last year. But continuation of drought condition in the south-central great plains into May raised prospects that this crop may turn out to be much lower than the latest estimate.

The department said small grain planting made rapid strides during April in central and south-Atlantic areas. Likewise, good progress in planting spring wheat in the upper great plains was reported.

Corn and soybean seed-bed preparation was said to be well ahead of normal in the midwest. In the southern half of the country, corn planting was close to completion.

The department said cotton planting got off to a fast start, with the proportion of the crop seeded by May 1 being about average in most states.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that farm employment gained 13 per cent during April, but failed to reach year-earlier levels by 3 per cent.

Total employment late in April was estimated at 6,398,000, compared with 6,617,000 a year earlier. Pacific coast states had the largest decrease from a year ago, largely reflecting non-favorable crop-planting conditions.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that the farm share of the consumer food dollar dipped to 37 cents during the first quarter of this year. In the like quarter last year the share was 39 cents and in the last quarter of last year it was 38 cents.

This was the second quarter since before World War II that the farm share has decreased to 37 cents. During the war it reached 54 cents.

Union Political

Dues Are Curtailed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled Monday that a railroad worker cannot be forced to pay that portion of his union dues which might be used for political purposes.

Justice Brennan announced the court's ruling in a complex decision in litigation that has been going on for 10 years and which, he said, has not yet run its course.

The ruling affected specifically about 30 North Carolina employees of the Southern Railway. They have contended it would be illegal to force them to pay dues to unions when they opposed any use of such dues money by unions for political purposes.

'Deplorable' Telephone Service Hit by Village

MASON, Ohio (AP)—Officials of this Warren County village have turned to Gov. James Rhodes and the Federal Communications Commission for help in correcting "deplorable" telephone service.

Mayor Charles Anderson also said in a letter to the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio that poor telephone service is hampering industrial development in the Mason area. Mason is serviced by the Ohio Central Telephone Corp.

Safety Stressed For Memorial Day

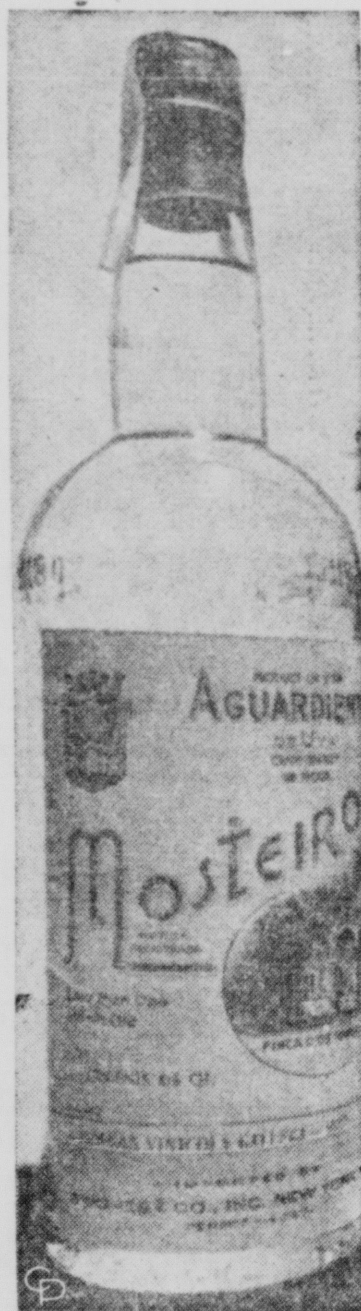

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's director of highway safety Warren C. (Bud) Nelson will get his first major battle test the end of this month but if the massed troops and plan of attack mean anything—the victory is his.

The battle is the four-day Memorial Day weekend—the first big holiday since Nelson, former editor of the Lebanon Western Star, was named highway safety director by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

"We're going into this with a positive approach," Nelson said. "It's not going to be how many lives will be lost but how many lives can be saved."

Being lined up for the assault on careless driving are all enforcement agencies in the state, all automobile clubs, the Ohio Trucking Association and a new "battalion" the Ohio Petroleum Council.

The petroleum council is being asked to have all service station attendants in the state remind motorists to drive safely and carefully.

KNOCKOUT GULPS—The U.S. Food and Drug Administration slapped an embargo on this Spanish brandy, saying it contains 30 per cent wood alcohol, which is toxic. It is grape brandy and is said to be similar to liquor which killed 22 in Spain in April.

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Robert K. Domer pleaded innocent by reason of insanity at his arraignment Monday on two counts of first-degree murder.

He was indicted by the Stark County Grand Jury in the burning death of a man whose body was found in Domer's flaming automobile.

Common Pleas Judge John Rosetti ordered Domer, 43-year-old president of the Continental Mortgage Corp., committed to Lima State Hospital for observation for 30 days.

The indictment charges Domer with killing Howard Franklin Riddle, 54-year-old Akron fruit peddler. It lists one count of premeditated murder and another count of kidnaping resulting in a death.

Covington Given Nod As Income Tax Center

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Public Works Committee has given final authorization for construction of a $4.6 million Internal Revenue Service data processing center at Covington, Ky.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., in announcing the action, said he would "work to secure early congressional approval of funds to build the center."

The announcement ended speculation that the proposed site might be changed because of a reshuffling by the IRS of its regional field setup.

High Court Shuns Blue Sky Law Look

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has refused to review conviction of Edgar I. Shott Jr., of Cincinnati, on a charge of violating Ohio's blue sky law.
The court dismissed his appeal without giving any explanation. Justice Black noted that he favored hearing the appeal.
Shott's appeal said he was sentenced to one to five years' imprisonment after giving a promissory note to Patrick Sestito, an old friend. The note was for $2,250 and Sestito was paid in full for his loan after 60 days.
The appeal stated that the prosecutor in closing argument in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court "repeatedly stated that, contrary to the evidence, there was a series of transactions constituting a public offering of appellant's (Shott's) promissory notes."
The appeal also protested that the trial court told the jury that the Sestito note was a security under the state's blue sky law; it was not registered as required by statute; Shott was a "dealer" required to be licensed; the making of the Sestito note constituted "the sale of a security" under the state law.
Such a law as applied to Shott, the appeal said, violated the U. S. Constitution because of vagueness and indefiniteness.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:
PUNISHMENT: The House has given a form of official sanction to the old adage "Spare the rod and spoil the child."
It passed legislation Monday that would allow teachers in the nation's capital to physically punish unruly pupils.
This backfr-the-woodshed move was recommended by a study of the district's public schools after a riot broke out last Thanksgiving at a city high school football championship game between a predominantly white Catholic school and a predominantly Negro public school.
The House sent the measure to the Senate by a 271 to 53 roll call vote.
Another measure that would permit suspension or expulsion of incorrigible youngsters within the age of compulsory attendance was approved without dissent.
NO NEWS CONFERENCE: The White House announced Monday that President Kennedy will not hold a news conference this week.

Veterans May Borrow on GI Insurance

Veterans holding permanent GI life insurance policies need not surrender them for cash in order to meet financial emergencies, James P. Shea, local Veterans Service officer, said today.
Shea stated these veterans may borrow up to 94 per cent of their policies' cash surrender value. This action, while reducing the amount of protection, does leave the policy in force.
Once surrendered for cash, however, all protection under the insurance would cease and could not be renewed nor reinstated, Shea said.
Money borrowed and not repaid would be deducted from the policy proceeds due to beneficiary should the veteran die, he continued. Annual interest on GI policy loans charged at four per cent on the unpaid balance and must be paid on or before the due date, Shea warned. If not paid, it is added to the loan principal and begins to draw interest; should this condition continue, the interest might consume the remaining cash value of the policy.
Repayment on the principal of the loan, Shea continued, may be made in amounts of $5 or any multiple thereof and at any time before default in payment of premiums.
Loans can be made only on permanent - type GI insurance policies, he said, GI term insurance has no loan value.
Veterans interested in securing loans on their GI insurance should contact the Veterans Service Officer in his office in the basement of the Courthouse.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:
Showers of the past 24 hours produced a one-tenth of an inch average over the northern counties of Ohio and three-fourths of an inch over the southern counties.

The sun had broken through over the northern and central counties early today and skies were in the process of clearing over the south.

Spring Planting Reported Well Above Normal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reports that despite moisture shortages in some areas the proportion of many spring crops seeded by May 1 was well ahead of normal, particularly over the eastern half of the nation.

Nevertheless, there were indications that drought might play an important role in determining this year's production. Dry weather fed the department to reduce its winter wheat estimates 5 per cent from that of a month earlier.

On the basis of May 1 conditions, winter wheat was put at $55 million bushels, down 42 million from a month earlier but 68 million more than was produced last year. But continuation of drought condition in the south-central great plains into May raised prospects that this crop may turn out to be much lower than the latest estimate.

The department said small grain planting made rapid strides during April in central and south-Atlantic areas. Likewise, good progress in planting spring wheat in the upper great plains was reported.

Corn and soybean seed - bed preparation was said to be well ahead of normal in the midwest. In the southern half of the country, corn planting was close to completion.

The department said cotton planting got off to a fast start, with the proportion of the crop seeded by May 1 being about average in most states.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that farm employment gained 13 per cent during April, but failed to reach year-earlier levels by 3 per cent.

Total employment late in April was estimated at 6,398,000, compared with 6,617,000 a year earlier. Pacific coast states had the largest decrease from a year ago, largely reflecting non-favorable crop-planting conditions.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that the farm share of the consumer food dollar dipped to 37 cents during the first quarter of this year. In the like quarter last year the share was 39 cents and in the last quarter of last year it was 38 cents.

This was the second quarter since before World War II that the farm share has decreased to 37 cents. During the war it reached 54 cents.

Union Political Dues Are Curtailed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled Monday that a railroad worker cannot be forced to pay that portion of his union dues which might be used for political purposes.

Justice Brennan announced the court's ruling in a complex decision in litigation that has been going on for 10 years and which, he said, has not yet run its course.

The ruling affected specifically about 30 North Carolina employees of the Southern Railway. They have contended it would be illegal to force them to pay dues to unions when they opposed any use of such dues money by unions for political purposes.

Safety Stressed For Memorial Day

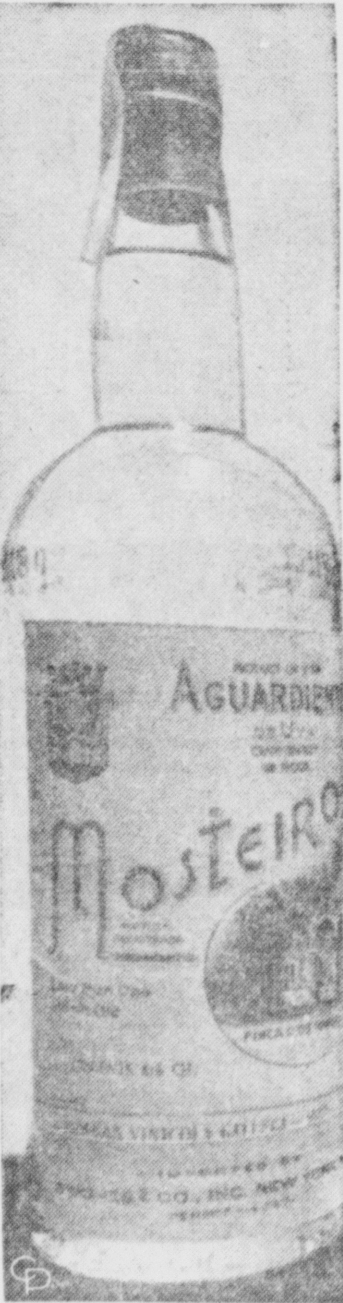

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's director of highway safety Warren C. (Bud) Nelson will get his first major battle test the end of this month but if the massed troops and plan of attack mean anything — the victory is his.

The battle is the four-day Memorial Day weekend — the first big holiday since Nelson, former editor of the Lebanon Star, was named highway safety director by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

"We're going into this with a positive approach," Nelson said. "It's not going to be how many lives will be lost but how many lives can be saved."

Being lined up for the assault on careless driving are all enforcement agencies in the state, all automobile clubs, the Ohio Trucking Association and a new "battalion" the Ohio Petroleum Council.

The petroleum council is being asked to have all service station attendants in the state remind motorists to drive safely and carefully.

KNOCKOUT GULPS—The U.S. Food and Drug Administration slapped an embargo on this Spanish brandy, saying it contains 30 per cent wood alcohol, which is toxic. It is grape brandy and is said to be similar to liquor which killed 22 in Spain in April.

The trucking association has been urged to cut down truck traffic and to have drivers on the road participate in Ohio's "lights on" campaign. That idea was started several years ago — drivers on the road turn on their lights as a reminder to all other motorists to drive carefully.

"This is really a department of ideas," the personable director pointed out. "Our business is to save lives and any ideas to help are what we need."

"Mental awareness is our biggest problem. You can have all of the safety devices available in your car but the most important one is the driver."

Since Nelson took over the department Jan. 14 he has been striving to make Ohioans more conscious of highway safety.

The biggest campaign so far has been a statewide slogan contest for the auto license plate "1" which in recent years has been the personal number of the director. The results of the contest, which will be an annual affair, will be announced May 28 — another weapon to be used in the Memorial Day weekend battle.

"There have been thousands of entries, but probably the most encouraging thing is the number of teen-agers who have entered," Nelson said.

"If we can get them safety conscious then they tend to remind their fathers when they're driving."

"Actually a wife is one of the best safety devices you can have in a car. Most of them watch that speedometer and will speak up if they think their husbands are driving too fast."

Baby Emerges From Washer Blowing Bubbles

SHEFFIELD, England (AP)—Ralph Morton, an 18-month-old, spent several minutes upside down in his mother's washing machine—with apparently no ill effects.

Iris Morton, 29, told the story today. "I left Ralph in his high chair near the washing machine and went in to make the bed," said Mrs. Morton.

"I returned to the kitchen and was horrified to see his feet sticking out of the washer. The motor was on and he could have drowned."

She hauled Ralph out. Her husband, Denis, 30, telephoned for an ambulance. The mother went to work with artificial respiration. "He'd stopped breathing," said Mrs. Morton, "but after a few minutes he began gurgling and blowing out soap bubbles. He was simply full of them."

Musicals To Predominate Kenley Summer Theater Bill

The Kenley Players' lineup of 14 plays to be presented during the summer months at Veterans Memorial Auditorium, Columbus, has all the potential of a third successful season.

Nine musicals will predominate the season bringing to the Central Ohio area such stars as Patricia Morison, Howard Keel, Ann Blyth, Anna Marie Alberghetti, and Dorothy Collins.

Many Circleville and Pickaway County theater goers have taken advantage of the Kenley productions during the past two summers, resulting in the revival of a keen interest in the theater. The 1963 season will open June 11 with Anna Marie Alberghetti in the musical "Fanny." The show will open on Tuesday and run through Sunday with matinees on Saturday and Sunday as in the case of every production.

RAYMOND Burr, TV's Perry Mason, will star the week of June 18 in the comedy "Anniversary Waltz."

"Show Boat", one of the all time hit-musicals, opens the week of June 25 with Howard Keel, who played the role in the movie version with Kathryn Grayson and Ava Gardner.

Merv Griffin and William Bendix will star in the performances of "Come Blow Your Horn" opening July 2. Phyllis McGuire and Peter Palmer star the week of July 9 in the happy musical "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

The prize-winning musical "Carnival" will star popular Ann Blyth beginning July 16. Patricia Morison will return to Columbus the week of July 23 in the musical "Song of Norway." She appeared here two years ago as Anna in "The King and I."

Beginning the second half of the season on July 30 will be Edie Adams as Sadie Thompson in "Rain." The award-winning "West Side Story" with the original stars and Bobby Rydell will open August 6. The Leonard Bernstein musical played to a full house for eight performances two years ago.

Pat Boone, star of radio, TV and movies, will appear in the comedy hit "Sunday in New York" beginning August 13. Dorothy Collins as Nellie will open the week of August 20 in the Rogers and Hammerstein musical "South Pacific."

The remainder of the season includes Robert Cummings in "Holiday for Lovers"; Brenda Lee in "The Wizard of Oz" and Van Johnson as Professor Harry Hill in "The Music Man."

Shoe Hurlers Open Central Ohio Loop Play Here Tonight

Competition in the Central Ohio Horse Shoe Pitching League with two Circleville teams entered, is scheduled to open tonight at the Pickaway Fairgrounds.

The league also includes teams from Columbus, Chillicothe, New Rome, Lancaster, Amanda and the Bremen area. Most of the pitching contests will be held at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds courts.

A special ribbon cutting ceremony is scheduled at the local courts at 7:30 p. m. today in observance of the Central Ohio League opening. Serving as Queen of the opening activities is Karen Rase of Route 1.

Circleville's two teams will be listed as No. 1 and No. 2. Each will include eight pitchers, according to Bob Wilkinson, local league official and veteran shoe twirler.

Delta Coach Benhase Aide At Hanover

Circleville grid boss Carl Benhase, who will take over the head football coaching position at Hanover College, Hanover, Ind., this fall, has announced Lou Kaczmerak will be his assistant.

Kaczmerak has been head coach at Delta High School for the past two years. He has 12 years coaching experience.

The two were teammates at Miami University when Ohio State University's head coach Woody Hayes was football mentor there. Kaczmerak was a center and Benhase a quarterback.

In addition to his assisting Benhase with football, he will be head baseball coach.

HE WILL also be a counselor in a men's dormitory and will teach physical education. In 1964 Hanover College plans to initiate a varsity wrestling program and at that time he will take over the position as head mat mentor.

Football practice starts at Hanover Sept. 1. Benhase says he intends to leave for the college as soon as he can negotiate the sale of his present home.

His resignation at Circleville is effective at the end of the present school year.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching his first victory since being shipped to the International League by the Philadelphia Phillies, southpaw Marcelino Lopez scored what proved to be the winning run as the Arkansas Travelers beat the Columbus Jets 3-2 Monday night.

The Travelers' victory put them one game behind Southern Division leader Atlanta after the Crackers fell to Buffalo 10-4.

Team No. 2 members are: Ray Goodman (manager), Bob Wilkinson (captain), Harold Whipple, Lawrence Hinkle, Roger Hinkle, Arthur Wilkes, Ralph Pritchard and Ed Heath.

Melvin Dodge, Columbus Recreation Department official, will head the Central Ohio loop. Wilkinson will serve as assistant director.

Clinton Hodge, veteran pitching league official and former Michigan state champion pitcher, will hold the office of secretary-treasurer. He also is captain of the Garland Equipment team of Columbus.

League pitching will be conducted three nights a week during the season. Wilkinson said about 90 per cent of the matches will be held at the local Fairgrounds courts.

Wilkinson said a fifth court has been added here, making the local arena one of the best in the state. He said indications are the Columbus Recreation Department will provide trophies for the league this year.

SEVERAL Circleville pitchers are scheduled to participate in the rugged Ohio League this year. The twirlers are Wilkinson, Bill Jones and J. D. Rhymer.

The Ohio League, which includes some of the best pitchers in the state, includes such cities as Canton, Akron, Alliance, New Philadelphia, Uhrichsville, Mansfield, Massillon and Wooster.

SPORTS Highlights

OHIO SPORTS BRIEFS

NEW YORK (AP)—Pacer Irvin Paul, last year's National Championship Pace winner, is the second choice in Thursday's running of the $5,000, two-mile classic at Yonkers Raceway.

Irvin Paul drew post nine in the 10-horse field and will be driven by Charles King of Hamilton, Ohio. He is a 7-2 choice. The favorite, 5-2, is Henry T. Adois.

CLEVELAND (AP) — An outbreak of a virus - type disease among horses at Northfield Park has resulted in the cancellation of the track's harness racing program Wednesday and Thursday. The track plans to reopen Friday.

Walter Michael, track president, said Monday night the track was forced to close those two days because of a lack of horses. Tonight's program was not cancelled, however.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Chateaugay, winner of the Kentucky Derby at Louisville May 4, received the plaudits of the Ohio General Assembly Monday night.

The legislators passed a resolution expressing pride in the accomplishment of Chateaugay, owned by John W. Galbreath, Darby Dan Farms, Columbus.

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Sam Huff of the New York Giants says the Giants always play a little harder when they are up against the Cleveland Browns.

Huff, here to present a portrait of Jim Thorpe to the Pro Football Hall of Fame, said Monday, "We know if we are to win in our division we have to beat the Browns. We always play harder. . . . particularly on defense."

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — A muddy night proved a great help Monday night as 11-1 shot Quorum won his first race of 1963 by three lengths at Lebanon Raceway.

The 5-year-old, owned by Harry Hamilton of Mount Vernon, took the lead early and held on to win the featured Conditional Trot in 2:15 with Bus Edwards of Mount Vernon in the sulky.

Quorum paid $26.00.

DETROIT (AP) — George E. Hauschild, 50, of Celina, Ohio, a groom at Hazel Park Race Track here, was killed Monday night when he was struck by a car in nearby Madison Heights.

Police said Hauschild apparently ran into the path of the car while returning to the track from a restaurant. The driver was not held.

Purkey Complains About Mets Fans

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Purkey, the Cincinnati Reds' player representative, says he is filing an official complaint with National League President Warren Giles about the way New York Mets fans act during ball games.

Purkey said he is basing his complaint on last weekend's series during which Cincinnati outfielders were pelted with fruit, beer cans, water containers and other things. Some players said they were spit on while leaving the field after the game.

Purkey said Monday his complaint would include a suggestion that the league compel the Mets to provide adequate police protection at the visiting team's dugout and while players walked to and from the clubhouse located behind the Polo Grounds' center field.

U.S. Cagers Eye World Crown

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—The United States, assured of a spot in the final round of play, goes after untested Italy tonight in the world basketball championships.

The United States team clinched a spot in the final round with an 81-51 triumph over Argentina Monday night, the Yankees' second victory in as many starts.

Italy, in the same first round group with the U.S., also clinched a spot in the finals with an 8-2 triumph over Mexico.

The 12 teams in the tourney are divided into four-team groups for first round competition. They play a round robin tourney, with the two top teams in each division going into the finals.

Browns Get Tackle From Dallas Crew

CLEVELAND (AP) — Acquisition of Ken Frost from the Dallas Cowboys has completed a rebuilding job on the Cleveland Browns' line, Coach Blanton Collier reports.

Collier said Monday night the Browns gave up an undisclosed draft choice to obtain the 240-pound defensive tackle.

The coach said it was the third step in a planned series of moves that started when Jim Ray Smith was persuaded to play for Dallas.

"That made it possible to get Monte Clark from the Cowboys. Then with this deal for Frost in mind, we were able to give up Floyd Peters (to Detroit) for Ken Webb."

Second Division Choices Set Pace Now in AL

Chisox, Bosox, A's Are 1-2-3 with Those Mighty Yanks Fourth

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

So, the Boston Red Sox are in second place in the American League. So, what's so funny about that?

Aren't the Chicago White Sox, like Boston a prime pre-season choice for the second division, running in front? And the Kansas City Athletics, another pick for the lower echelon a close third?

And aren't New York's mighty Yankees struggling along in fourth with the other contenders stringing behind?

It's just a crazy, mixed-up race, that's all.

The Red Sox put the slug on the Washington Senators 8-5 Monday night and the Los Angeles Angels whipped the White Sox 7-3 in the only games on the AL schedule.

The results eased Boston into the runner-up spot, one game back of Chicago and 10 percentage points ahead of the A's, and put the Angels into a sixth-place tie with Cleveland at the .500 level.

Houston now shares ninth place with Milwaukee.

The Red Sox belted seven extra-basers among their 11 hits, including a three-run homer by Bob Tillyman in the sixth inning that stood up as the clincher.

Washington starter Don Rudolph was routed in the first.

Tall Gene Conley was credited with the pitching victory, his second in three decisions, with strong help from Dick Radatz.

The Angels also went on a long-ball binge in beating Chicago for the second time in a row, while the White Sox had a frustrating evening on the bases.

Leon Wagner smacked his seventh homer and two singles for Los Angeles and Sadowski homered and singled, George Thomas hit a homer, and Jim Fregosi cracked a triple and two-run double.

The White Sox blew several chances but the big one was in the second — when they managed just one run on four singles and an Angel error.

Houston right-hander Bob Bruce turned back the Mets on just two hits and struck out 11 through eight innings but lost his shut out and complete game bid with two away in the ninth.

Bruce walked leadoff man Duke Snider in the ninth, got the next two Mets, but then hit pinch hitter Choo Choo Coleman and walked Charlie Neal.

After yielding a pinch two-run single to Chris Cannizaro, Bruce was relieved by Don McMahon, who struck out Cliff Cook.

Old Pimlico Jinx Faces Chateaugay

BALTIMORE (AP) — A sizable jinx at Pimlico's sharp turns face Chateaugay when he races for $150,000-plus and a wreath of Black-Eyed Susans in the Preakness Saturday.

If John W. Galbreath's colt grabs the second leg of the triple crown, he will be only the fifth Kentucky Derby winner in 19 years to win the Pimlico classic, and the 14th since 1873.

The triple crown itself has gone a-begging since Citation won it in 1948.

Odds seem to favor second place finishers in the Derby or winners of the Preakness Prep.

Runners-up at Churchill Downs have done nearly twice as well in the Preakness as Derby winners, which should be heartening news to Never Bend's owners.

Never Bend finished behind Chateaugay by a length and a quarter a fortnight ago in the Derby. Candy Spots was third.

On My Honor, fourth place finisher in the Derby, worked a mile Monday easily in 1:40 1-5.

The probable seven-horse field will be rounded out by Lemon Twist and Sky Wonder.

Johnny Balquist is in his 12th season as Columbia University baseball coach.

Views on Television — Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—When those vital Nielsen ratings, listing television's top ten programs, come out every two weeks, one is likely to look at the estimates of astronomical numbers of persons in the audience and imagine millions of people glued rapturously to their chairs by the antics of, say, "The Beverly Hillbillies."

The other night, I paid some attention to the four people in my living room, all watching—if that's the word—a popular variety show. The star came on and sang an opening song, but about halfway through one member of the audience said, loudly: "I understand he's very happily married."

This failed to elicit much of a conversation. As the next number—a stand-up comedy routine—started, another viewer gave a sharp exclamation, jumped up and disappeared into another room. She returned in the middle of a joke with a stamped, addressed envelope and a long explanation about how important it was to get it mailed. We all missed the tagline. We just about finished the talk about the letter when it was time for the commercial.

At this point the fourth member of the viewing team, departed for the kitchen to make a glass of iced coffee which resulted in a three-party search for a missing saccharine bottle.

So it went for a solid hour. All told, I don't believe there were 10 consecutive minutes of quiet, uninterrupted viewing during the 60 minutes.

Ping Crosby's No. 1 boy, Gary, has been signed to play Bill Dana's buddy and confidante in next season's NBC comedy series. Dana will play his familiar role of Jose Jimenez, who first appeared on the old Steve Allen show and then went on to the Danny Thomas series.

Lucille Ball and Vivian Vance are making some of next season's "Lucy Shows" during May and June—and it looks as if Dick Martin of the comedy team of Rowan and Martin will no longer play Lucy's handy bachelor neighbor, Harry, the airlines pilot.

The first show already filmed has Lucy going duck hunting with "a new boy friend," played by Keith Andes—who, it may be remembered, was Lucy's leading man in her Broadway production, "Wild Cat."

Sid Caesar's chief writer for his biweekly comedy series next season will be Goodman Ace, one of the best-known and most successful in television. Ace has headed Perry Como's writing staff for several seasons—at a salary generally considered to be magnificent.

Recommended tonight: "As Caesar Sees It," ABC, 10:30-11 (EDT)—another in Sid Caesar's series of half-hour comedy specials.

4 Attorneys Recommended For Penalty

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Supreme Court Commissioners on grievances and discipline recommended indefinite suspensions today for four attorneys accused of unprofessional conduct.

The court gave the four until June 22 to show why the recommendations should not be accepted.

Local bar associations brought the charges before the commission.

The Cleveland Bar Association accused Thomas J. Robinson, of Cleveland attorney of co-mingling trust funds with his own and with failing to remit promptly funds collected for clients.

The Clermont County Bar Association said that Thomas S. Ellis, Batia attorney, should be suspended because he was convicted last year on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. A motion for a new trial is pending in that case, records show.

Two Columbus attorneys, Kenneth Agee and Stanley Jurus were accused by the Columbus Bar Association of soliciting legal business.

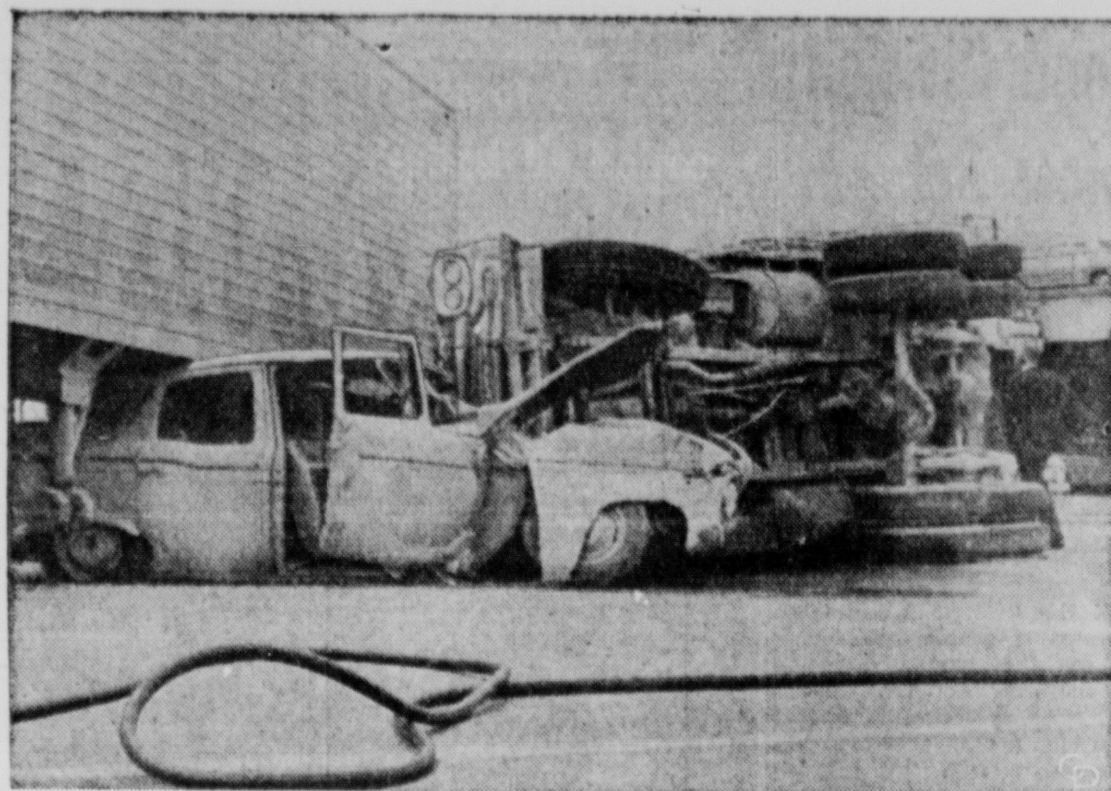

The association said that Agee split fees in workmen's compensation cases with Walter Sullens of Portsmouth. Records show that Sullens maintained a non-law office in the same building with the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation office in Portsmouth, had direct telephone line into Agee's Columbus office and received $48,000 in office in Portsmouth, had direct line.

Jurus denied soliciting law business.

Eisenhower Claims Kennedy Spending for Spending's Sake

NEW YORK (AP)—Saying that "in effect, we are stealing from our grandchildren in order to satisfy our desires of today," former President Dwight D. Eisenhower accuses the Kennedy administration of "spending for spending's sake."

Eisenhower's comments, in an article in the Saturday Evening Post's current edition, were some of his sharpest criticisms yet of his successor in the White House.

The former president said his "sense of duty as a citizen demands that I speak out bluntly regarding what I believe to be a clear danger which could threaten our free way of life and our security as a nation."

"That threat," he said, "is the determined effort of our current political leaders to commit the United States to a risky, highly experimental fiscal adventure, based on a questionable theory which I call 'spending for spending's sake.'"

Eisenhower called attention to the administration's $98.8-billion budget, its proposed tax cut which he said would reach more than $10 billion a year by 1965, and a fiscal deficit which he said will total $11.1 billion.

"My first reaction to these proposals was one of amazement—and no doubt many other Americans reacted the same way," he wrote.

"What can those people in Washington be thinking about? Why would they deliberately do this to our country? I asked myself."

Saying he favors a tax cut, combined with a cut in spending, Eisenhower said: "I still insist that the proposed budget is extravagant and can be cut by billions of dollars without harming a single essential federal function."

Many budget items have become distended beyond reason, he said.

As an example, he mentioned that subsidies, originally intended as a wartime production incentive, have become imbedded in the farm economy and comprise much of the $5.7 billion allotted for agriculture.

He advocated an "orderly step-by-step" procedure in the nation's space effort rather than "launching wildly into crash programs on many fronts."

"This," he said of the space program, "is where we seem to have got out of focus."

He made reference to what he

termed "stunts and unnecessary contests."

Eisenhower asserted that "if enough citizens write to their representatives and senators asking why they have been voting so much money for racing to the moon, farm subsidies, and even for defense, Congress will get the message."

Ohio Campus Speakers Eyed

House Panel Slated To Vote on Curbs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio House Government Operations Committee expects to vote Wednesday night on a bill to permit regulation of speakers on campuses of Ohio's six state universities and colleges.

The committee accepted Monday night a report by a subcommittee recommending the revised measure to permit trustees and officials of any college or university which receives state funds to regulate what persons may use their facilities for speaking.

State Rep. Thomas Herbert, R-Columbus, chairman of the subcommittee, said the substitute bill retains the aims of the original speakers on the university campuses.

It would require that the trustees shall not permit use of the college or university facilities for speaking by any person who:

Is a member of the Communist Party of the United States or an organization which is a communist - action, communist-front or communist - infiltrated organization of the United States.

Refuses, upon request of the trustees, to sign an affidavit he does not advocate, abet, advise or teach overthrow of the government of the United States, state or political subdivision by force or violence or by assassination of an officer.

Has been convicted of contempt of court for refusing to answer any question in regard to membership in the Communist Party of the United States or communist organization.

Herbert explained that the first stipulation as to Communist Party membership is taken from the Communist Control Act of 1954, adopted by Congress and upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court.

TOTAL PERFORMANCE:

IF YOU KNEW WHAT TINY LUND KNOWS ABOUT FORD DURABILITY...YOU'D BE OUT ENJOYING A '63 FORD

Ask Tiny Lund about Ford durability: He'll tell you how it helped him win America's toughest stock-car competition, the Daytona 500. Lund placed first in a Ford, with four other Fords right behind him for an unprecedented sweep of the first five places. Only the Fords were tough enough to stand the pace.

Greater durability is the reason Ford is able to offer a total-car warranty. Only a true total-performance car could offer as complete a warranty as this—with no strings attached:

"Ford Motor Company warrants to its dealers, and its dealers, in turn, warrant to owners as follows: That for 24 months or for 24,000 miles*, whichever comes first, free replacement, including related labor, will be made by dealers of any part with a defect in workmanship or materials. Tires are not covered by the warranty; appropriate adjustments will be made by the tire companies. Owners will remain responsible for normal maintenance services, routine replacement of parts, such as filters, spark plugs, ignition points, wiper blades, brake or clutch linings, and normal deterioration of soft trim and appearance items."

You can't put a long-term warranty like ours on a short-term car. The '63 Fords have a better warranty because they're built better than any Fords in history. You see evidence of this extra toughness in Ford's outstanding competitive wins this year. '63 Fords won the grueling Daytona, Riverside, and Atlanta 500's, and the demanding Pure Oil Performance Trials. Only cars with total performance could roll up so many big wins. Before you buy any new car, test-drive the solid, silent Super Torque Ford. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Remember: If it's built by Ford, it's built for performance...total performance.

SPORTS Highlights

OHIO SPORTS BRIEFS
NEW YORK (AP)—Pacer Irvin Paul, last year's National Championship Pace winner, is the second choice in Thursday's running of the $5,000, two-mile classic at Yonkers Raceway.
Irvin Paul drew post nine in the 10-horse field and will be driven by Charles King of Hamilton, Ohio. He is a 7-2 choice. The favorite, 5-2, is Henry T. Adois.

CLEVELAND (AP)—An outbreak of a virus - type disease among horses at Northfield Park has resulted in the cancellation of the track's harness racing program Wednesday and Thursday. The track plans to reopen Friday.
Walter Michael, track president, said Monday night the track was forced to close those two days because of a lack of horses. Tonight's program was not cancelled, however.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Chateaugay, winner of the Kentucky Derby at Louisville May 4, received the plaudits of the Ohio General Assembly Monday night. The legislators passed a resolution expressing pride in the accomplishment of Chateaugay, owned by John W. Galbreath, Darby Dan Farms, Columbus.

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Sam Huff of the New York Giants says the Giants always play a little harder when they are up against the Cleveland Browns.
Huff, here to present a portrait of Jim Thorpe to the Pro Football Hall of Fame, said Monday, "We know if we are to win in our division we have to beat the Browns. We always play harder... particularly on defense."

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—A muddy track proved a great help Monday night as 11-1 shot Quorum won his first race of 1963 by three lengths at Lebanon Raceway.
The 5-year-old, owned by Harry Hamilton of Mount Vernon, took the lead early and held on to win the featured Conditional Trot in 2:15 with Bus Edwards of Mount Vernon in the sulky.
Quorum paid $26.00.

DETROIT (AP)—George E. Hauschild, 50, of Celina, Ohio, a groom at Hazel Park Race Track here, was killed Monday night when he was struck by a car in nearby Madison Heights.
Police said Hauschild apparently ran into the path of the car while returning to the track from a restaurant. The driver was not held.

Purkey Complains About Mets Fans

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Purkey, the Cincinnati Reds' player representative, says he is filing an official complaint with National League President Warren Giles about the way New York Mets fans act during ball games.
Purkey said he is basing his complaint on last weekend's series during which Cincinnati outfielders were pelted with fruit, beer cans, water containers and other things. Some players said they were spit on while leaving the field after the game.
Purkey said Monday his complaint would include a suggestion that the league compel the Mets to provide adequate police protection at the visiting team's dugout and while players walked to and from the clubhouse located behind the Polo Grounds center field.

U.S. Cagers Eye World Crown

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—The United States, assured of a spot in the final round of play, goes after unbeaten Italy tonight in the world basketball championships.
The United States team clinched a spot in the final round with an 81-51 triumph over Argentina Monday night, the Yankees' second victory in as many starts.
Italy, in the same first round group with the U.S., also clinched a spot in the finals with an 0-82 triumph over Mexico.
The 12 teams in the tourney are divided into four-team groups for first round competition. They play a round robin tourney, with the two top teams in each division going into the finals.

Browns Get Tackle From Dallas Crew

CLEVELAND (AP)—Acquisition of Ken Frost from the Dallas Cowboys has completed a rebuilding job on the Cleveland Browns' line, Coach Blanton Collier reports.
Collier said Monday night the Browns gave up an undisclosed draft choice to obtain the 240-pound defensive tackle.
The coach said that was the third step in a planned series of moves that started when Jim Ray Smith was persuaded to play for Dallas.

Second Division Choices Set Pace Now in AL

Chisox, Bosox, A's Are 1-2-3 with Those Mighty Yanks Fourth

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

So, the Boston Red Sox are in second place in the American League. So, what's so funny about that?
Aren't the Chicago White Sox, like Boston a prime pre-season choice for the second division, running in front? And the Kansas City Athletics, another pick for the lower echelon a close third?
And aren't New York's mighty Yankees struggling along in fourth with the other contenders stringing behind?
It's just a crazy, mixed-up race, that's all.

The Red Sox put the slug on the Washington Senators 8-5 Monday night and the Los Angeles Angels whipped the White Sox 7-3 in the only games on the AL schedule.
The results eased Boston into the runner-up spot, one game back of Chicago and 10 percentage points ahead of the A's, and put the Angels into a sixth-place tie with Cleveland at the .500 level.
In the only National League game, the Houston Colts climbed out of sole occupancy of the cellar with their fifth straight victory, outlasting the New York Mets 4-2 in a runaway turned cliffhanger. Houston now shares ninth place with Milwaukee.

The Red Sox belted seven extra-basers among their 11 hits, including a three-run homer by Bob Tillman in the sixth inning that stood up as the clincher.
Washington starter Don Rudolph was routed in the first.
Tall Gene Conley was credited with the pitching victory, his second in three decisions, with strong help from Dick Radatz.
The Angels also went on a long-ball binge in beating Chicago for the second time in a row, while the White Sox had a frustrating evening on the bases.
Leon Wagner smacked his seventh homer and two singles for Los Angeles and Sadowski homered and singled, George Thomas hit a homer, and Jim Fregosi cracked a triple and two-run double.

The White Sox blew several chances but the big one was in the second — when they managed just one run on four singles and an Angel error.
Houston right-hander Bob Bruce turned back the Mets on just two hits and struck out 11 through eight innings but lost his shut out and complete game bid with two away in the ninth.
Bruce walked leadoff man Duke Snider in the ninth, got the next two Mets, but then hit pinch hitter Choo Choo Coleman and walked Charlie Neal.

After yielding a pinch two-run single to Chris Cannizaro, Bruce was relieved by Don McMahon, who struck out Cliff Cook.

Old Pimlico Jinx Faces Chateaugay

BALTIMORE (AP)—A sizable jinx at Pimlico's sharp turns face Chateaugay when he races for $150,000-plus and a wreath of Black-Eyed Susans in the Preakness Saturday.
If John W. Galbreath's colt grabs the second leg of the triple crown, he will be only the fifth Kentucky Derby winner in 19 years to win the Pimlico classic, and the 14th since 1873.
The triple crown itself has gone a-begging since Citation won it in 1948.

Odds seem to favor second place finishers in the Derby or winners of the Preakness Prep.
Runners-up at Churchill Downs have done nearly twice as well in the Preakness as Derby winners, which should be heartening news to Never Bend's owners.
Never Bend finished behind Chateaugay by a length and a quarter a fortnight ago in the Derby. Candy Spots was third.
On My Honor, fourth place finisher in the Derby, worked a mile Monday easily in 1:40 1-5.
The probable seven-horse field will be rounded out by Lemon Twist and Sky Wonder.

Johnny Balquist is in his 12th season as Columbia University baseball coach.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—When those vital Nielsen ratings, listing television's top ten programs, come out every two weeks, one is likely to look at the estimates of astronomical numbers of persons in the audience and imagine millions of people glued rapturously to their chairs by the antics of, say, "The Beverly Hillbillies."
The other night, I paid some attention to the four people in my living room, all watching—if that's the word—a popular variety show. The star came on and sang an opening song, but about halfway through one member of the audience said, loudly: "I understand he's very happily married."

This failed to elicit much of a conversation. As the next number—a stand-up comedy routine—started, another viewer gave a sharp exclamation, jumped up and disappeared into another room. She returned in the middle of a joke with a stamped, addressed envelope and a long explanation about how important it was to get it mailed. We all missed the tagline. We just about finished the talk about the letter when it was time for the comedian.

At this point the fourth member of the viewing team, departed for the kitchen to make a glass of iced coffee which resulted in a three-party search for a missing saccharine bottle.
So it went for a solid hour. All told, I don't believe there were 10 consecutive minutes of quiet, uninterrupted viewing during the 60 minutes.

Bing Crosby's No. 1 boy, Gary, has been signed to play Bill Dana's buddy and confidante in next season's NBC comedy series. Dana will play his familiar role of Jose Jimenez, who first appeared on the old Steve Allen show and then went on to the Danny Thomas series.
Lucille Ball and Vivian Vance are making some of next season's "Lucy Shows" during May and June—and it looks as if Dick Martin of the comedy team of Rowan and Martin will no longer play Lucy's handy bachelor neighbor, Harry, the airlines pilot.
The first show already filmed has Lucy going duck hunting with "a new boy friend," played by Keith Andes—who, it may be remembered, was Lucy's leading man in her Broadway production, "Wild Cat."

Sid Caesar's chief writer for his biweekly comedy series next season will be Goodman Ace, one of the best-known and most successful in television. Ace has headed Perry Como's writing staff for several seasons—at a salary generally considered to be magnificent.

Recommended tonight: "As Caesar See s It," ABC, 10:30-11 (EDT)—another in Sid Caesar's series of half-hour comedy specials.

4 Attorneys Recommended For Penalty

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Supreme Court Commissioners on grievances and discipline recommended indefinite suspensions today for four attorneys accused of unprofessional conduct.
The court gave the four until June 22 to show why the recommendations should not be accepted.

Local bar associations brought the charges before the commission.
The Cleveland Bar Association accused Thomas J. Robinson, of Cleveland attorney of co-mingling trust funds with his own and with failing to remit promptly funds collected for clients.

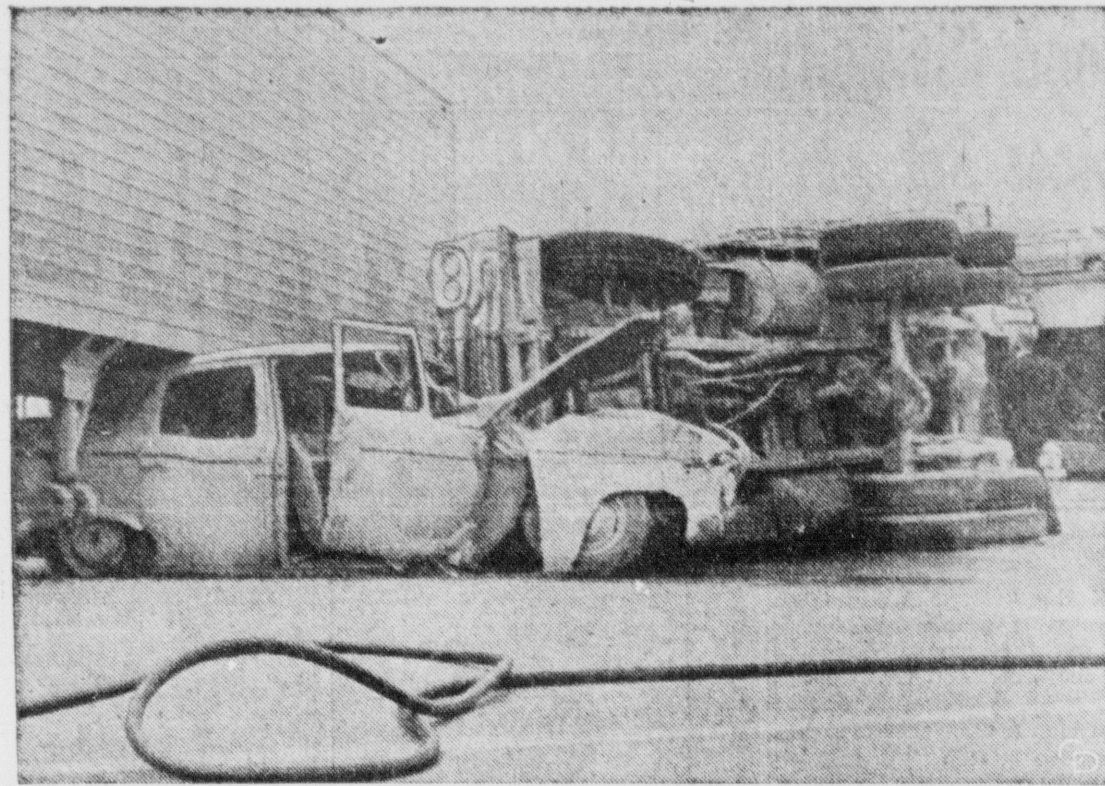

The Clermont County Bar Association said that Thomas S. Elms, Batia attorney, should be suspended because he was convicted last year on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. A motion for a new trial is pending in that case, records show.

Two Columbus attorneys, Kenneth Agee and Stanley Jurus were accused by the Columbus Bar Association of soliciting legal business.

The association said that Agee split fees in workmen's compensation cases with Walter Sullens of Portsmouth. Records show that Sullens maintained a non-law office in the same building with the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation office in Portsmouth, had direct telephone line into Agee's Columbus office and received $48,000 in office in Portsmouth, had direct line.

EVERYBODY SAFE—That's the car of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin J. Harris squeezed under that big freight truck in Dallas, Tex. They got out without serious injury. So did the driver of the freight truck, and likewise the driver of the dirt-laden dump truck which is overturned. The dump truck lost its brakes and rammed the Harris car under the freighter.

Eisenhower Claims Kennedy Spending for Spending's Sake

NEW YORK (AP)—Saying that "in effect, we are stealing from our grandchildren in order to satisfy our desires of today," former President Dwight D. Eisenhower accuses the Kennedy administration of "spending for spending's sake."

Eisenhower's comments, in an article in the Saturday Evening Post's current edition, were some of his sharpest criticisms yet of his successor in the White House. The former president said his "sense of duty as a citizen demands that I speak out bluntly regarding what I believe to be a clear danger which could threaten our free way of life and our security as a nation."

"That threat," he said, "is the determined effort of our current political leaders to commit the United States to a risky, highly experimental fiscal adventure, based on a questionable theory which I call 'spending for spending's sake.'"
Eisenhower called attention to the administration's $98.8-billion budget, its proposed tax cut which he said would reach more than $10 billion a year by 1965, and a fiscal deficit which he said would total $11 billion.

"My first reaction to these proposals was one of amazement—and no doubt many other Americans reacted the same way," he wrote.

Saying he favors a tax cut, combined with a cut in spending, Eisenhower said: "I still insist that the proposed budget is extravagant and can be cut by billions of dollars without harming a single essential federal function."

Many budget items have become distended beyond reason, he said.

As an example, he mentioned that subsidies, originally intended as a wartime production incentive, have become imbedded in the farm economy and comprise much of the $5.7 billion allotted for agriculture.

He advocated an "orderly step-by-step" procedure in the nation's space effort rather than "launching wildly into crash programs on many fronts."

termed "stunts and unnecessary contests."

House Panel Slated To Vote on Curbs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio House Government Operations Committee expects to vote Wednesday night on a bill to permit regulation of speakers on campuses of Ohio's six state universities and colleges.

The committee accepted Monday night a report by a subcommittee recommending the revised measure to permit trustees and officials of any college or university which receives state funds to regulate what persons may use their facilities for speaking.

State Rep. Thomas Herbert, R-Columbus, chairman of the subcommittee, said the substitute bill retains the aims of the original speakers on the university campuses.

It would require that the trustees shall not permit use of the college or university facilities for speaking by any person who:

Is a member of the Communist Party of the United States or an organization which is a communist - action, communist-front or communist - infiltrated organization of the United States.

Refuses, upon request of the trustees, to sign an affidavit he does not advocate, abet, advise or teach overthrow of the government of the United States, state or political subdivision by force or violence or by assassination of an officer.

Has been convicted of contempt of court for refusing to answer any question in regard to membership in the Communist Party of the United States or communist organization.

Herbert explained that the first stipulation as to Communist Party membership is taken from the Communist Control Act of 1954, adopted by Congress and upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court.

TOTAL PERFORMANCE:

Ask Tiny Lund about Ford durability: He'll tell you how it helped him win America's toughest stock-car competition, the Daytona 500. Lund placed first in a Ford, with four other Fords right behind him for an unprecedented sweep of the first five places. Only the Fords were tough enough to stand the pace.

Greater durability is the reason Ford is able to offer a total-car warranty. Only a true total-performance car could offer as complete a warranty as this—with no strings attached:

"Ford Motor Company warrants to its dealers, and its dealers, in turn, warrant to owners as follows: That for 24 months or for 24,000 miles*, whichever comes first, free replacement, including related labor, will be made by dealers of any part with a defect in workmanship or materials. Tires are not covered by the warranty; appropriate adjustments will be made by the tire companies. Owners will remain responsible for normal maintenance services, routine replacement of parts, such as filters, spark plugs, ignition points, wiper blades, brake or clutch linings, and normal deterioration of soft trim and appearance items."

You can't put a long-term warranty like ours on a short-term car. The '63 Fords have a better warranty because they're built better than any Fords in history. You see evidence of this extra toughness in Ford's outstanding competitive wins this year.

'63 Fords won the grueling Daytona, Riverside, and Atlanta 500's, and the demanding Pure Oil Performance Trials. Only cars with total performance could roll up so many big wins.

Before you buy any new car, test-drive the solid, silent Super Torque Ford. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Remember: If it's built by Ford, it's built for performance...total performance.
